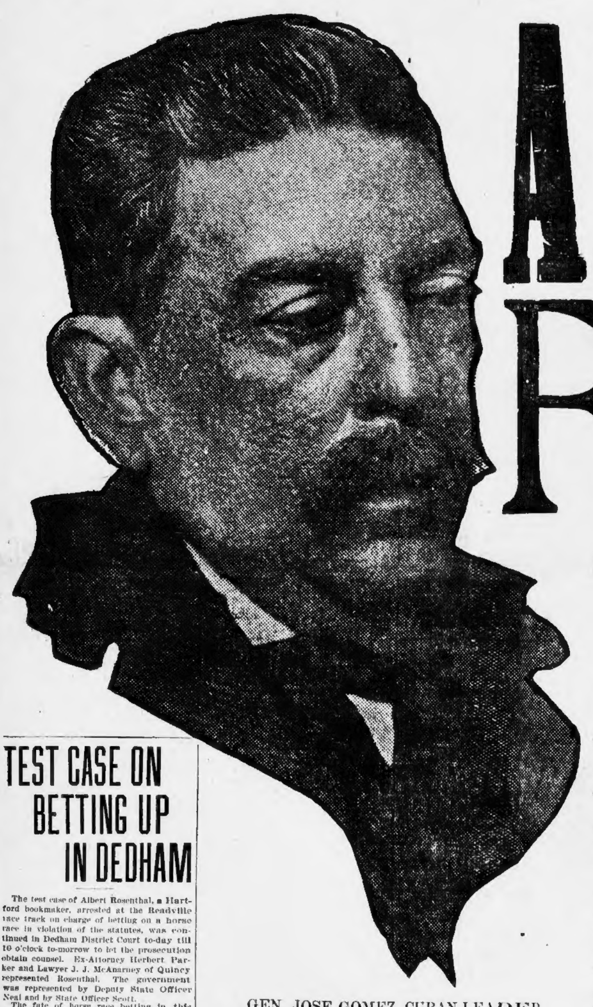
CUBAN REVOLT SPREADS, OFFICER OF POLICE KILLED

AMERICANS FLEE TO CITIES FOR SAFETY



GEN. JOSE GOMEZ, CUBAN LEADER.

Reports that he has joined the revolutionists are current, but have been denied. He was recently a candidate for president.

Sharp Skirmish Between the Rebels and Rural Guards in Pinar del Rio---Revolutionists Plan Attacks on Americans to Force Intervention.

HAVANA, Aug. 21.—Americans in Cuba, fearing attack by the revolutionists, are deserting their plantations and fleeing to the cities. The gravity of the situation increases hourly, more and more reports of fighting between the rebels and the troops being received. The especial danger to Americans is due to the policy of the revolutionists to force intervention by the United States by marking Americans for attack.

If the revolutionists cannot force intervention by the United States in any other way, it is asserted, they will enter on a program of burning the property of American residents to bring about the result they desire. Commerce has been paralyed in the Western provinces through fear that the rebels will resort to pillaging.

Estimate 2,000 Rebels.

The revolutionary forces are now estimated from 1,000 to 2,000 men. The rebels are scattered about the country in small bands for the most part. If they can be collected into a single army they will be in a position to create a great deal of trouble.

The situation is worst in the province of Pinar del Rio. Advices from the city of Pinar del Rio say that Congressman Guerra intends to capture that city. It is the intention of the revolutionists to establish their headquarters there. Guerra has a force of 400 men at his command, while the entire force of rural guards and volunteers at the call of the government does not exceed 300 men.

In the fighting yesterday rurales under the direct command of Emilio Nunez, Governor of Havana Province, overtook a band of revolutionists under Quentin Banderas, the negro general who achieved distinction in the war against Spain. The engagement was fought on Santa Lucia plantation, which is the property of an American named Rafael Donaphan, near Hoyo, Colorado, twenty-five miles from Havana. Lieutenant Roque of the rurales was killed, receiving three shots in the body. The fighting lasted for two hours, and the government forces, which were outnumbered by the rebels, retired.

CALLS SITUATION SERIOUS.

Governor Nunez returned to Havana last night and made a lengthy report to President Palma. To a press correspondent he admitted that the situation is very serious.

The report has been current for some time that General Jose Miguel Gomez, who was a candidate for President, has joined the revolution. Denial of this has been offered, but the denials are not definitely accepted. If Gomez has formally allied himself with the revolutionists the situation is indeed grave.

ATTACK DANISH CONSUL.

A raid was made yesterday on the home of the Danish consul, nine miles from Havana and within a few hundred yards of the home of the American minister. Twelve blooded horses were taken from his corral. The object of the revolutionists was evidently to involve Cuba in foreign complications if possible. Raids were made on other plantations and horses were driven off for the use of the rebels.

Rumors were afloat last night that another battle had been fought in Pinar del Rio in which the government had been defeated. Considerable losses on both sides were reported.

Reinforcements are being hurried to the province by the government and President Palma has taken steps to increase the rurales by 2,000 men.

President Palma is confined to his palace, protected by a strong force of troops and detectives. Havana is in gloom, and business is almost paralyzed. The cigar makers have gone out on a general strike, which is suspected of being politically inspired.

WILL U. S. INTERVENE?

There is considerable discussion as to whether, in the event of Cuba being unable to suppress the insurrection, she should ask the United States for assistance or whether the United States may not intervene under the terms of the Platt amendment without such request being preferred.

General Demetrio Dusny Castillo, formerly governor of the province of Santiago, and Juan Alberto Gomez, one of the editors of La Lucha of Havana, were seized and placed under arrest by the rural guards at El Caney Monday night. They will be put on trial for inciting rebellion.

By preferring this charge the government officially admits organized insurrection.

The men who were arrested Monday, the three sons of General Calixto Garcia, General Monteagudo, General Loynaz del Castillo and Colon is Pedro and Albertt, were merely accused of conspiring to assassinate the President.

One of the rigorous measures adopted to stamp out the movement was a prohibition yesterday of the departure of any automobiles from the city. It is feared that the enemy might use them for couriers.

TAUNTED TROOPS OF CZAR, 57 ARE SHOT

PEASANTS WHO ASKED WHY DIDN'T YOU DEFEAT JAPS? SHOT DOWN AT FAIR.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 21.—"If you are so brave why didn't you defeat the Japanese?" That taunt tossed at Russian soldiers at a fair held in Kharkoff province was directly responsible for an attack made on groups of peasants in which fifty-seven of the latter were killed or injured.

A number of soldiers attended the fair and came into conflict with the peasants. The latter taunted the soldiers with the words quoted. The soldiers reported to their commander how they had been jeered at by the peasants.

The officer at once called in a company of soldiers and ordered them to charge the peasants. The latter were not expecting the attack and were totally unarmed.

58 OFFICIALS IN RUSSIA SLAIN BY BOMBS IN A WEEK

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 21.—During last week according to government statistics fifty-eight officials were murdered and forty-three were wounded in Russia proper, that fifty bombs depots were discovered, that six safes were rifled of money, and that sixty-three persons were robbed. These official figures do not take into account the pillaging in the country, nor do they give the number of military executions or arrests of agitators and revolutionists, and there are no figures showing the number of persons sent into exile.

The St. Petersburg Gazette says that 2,300 persons were banished on Saturday from St. Petersburg alone, and that 750 were placed on trains bound for the interior. Prefect of Police von Launitz has declared his intention of clearing the capital of all "vagabonds."

The police of this city are being trained in the handling of rapid-fire guns at an arms factory outside of St. Petersburg. A detachment of police is sent there daily for training.

Four more members of the outlawed Parliament have been arrested, including M. Frenkel at Yaman and M. Pritull at Orloffka.

Thirty-seven naval officers at Cronstadt have resigned owing to their indignation at what they characterize as the lenient sentences imposed on mutineers by the court-martial in session there.

Sixteen men, condemned for participation in the mutiny at Cronstadt August 1, were executed yesterday. Among the number were two students named Ivanoff and Makriana, and Dr. Gusaroff, an army surgeon.

COSSACKS REVOLT, DISARM POLICE, LOCK UP OFFICIALS

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 21.—A serious mutiny on the part of Cossacks has occurred in the Astrakhan province. Several popular teachers were arrested by the police and were being taken away when a thousand Cossacks came to their assistance. The teachers were released and the police disarmed. Next, the Cossacks arrested the local authorities, including the prefect, and they are all in jail guarded by the Cossacks.

TEST CASE ON BETTING UP IN DEDHAM

The test case of Albert Rosenthal, a Hartford bookmaker, arrested at the Readville race track on charge of betting on a horse race in violation of the statutes, was continued in Dedham District Court to-day till 10 o'clock to-morrow to let the prosecution obtain counsel. Ex-Attorney Herbert Parker and Lawyer J. J. McAnarney of Quincy represented Rosenthal. The government was represented by Deputy State Officer Neal and by State Officer Scott.

The fate of horse race betting in this State may be settled by this case.

Open bookmaking has not been tried at Readville for the past few seasons. But at the opening of this meet yesterday three bookmakers, working for Andy Welch, of the Charter Oak track of Hartford, were on hand, doing business. This opening of betting was the result of a discovery by J. J. McAnarney, a Quincy lawyer.

Betting Made Legal?

Mr. McAnarney found a clause in the betting statute which, it is declared, makes the betting on the Readville grounds during the racing meet of the New England Trotting Horse Association perfectly legal.

The law reads:

Whoever (except in trials of speed of horses for premiums offered by legally constituted agricultural societies, or by corporations authorized thereto by the provisions of Section 11, Chapter 125) engages in racing, running, trotting or pacing a horse or other animal of the horse kind for a bet, wager or money or other valuable thing, or for a purse or stake made within this Commonwealth, or whosoever aids or abets the same, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by one year's imprisonment, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

The pool sellers rest their case on the clause "or by corporations authorized thereto, etc.,——" The New England Trotting Horse Association was organized under an enabling act as follows:

Those Who May Race Horses.

"Corporations which are formed under the provisions of this chapter for encouraging the raising of choice breeds of horses may establish and maintain grounds suitable for exhibition and trials of speed or strength of horses; may arrange for and advertise such exhibition and trials upon such grounds, may collect admission fees thereto and may award purses or premiums to the participants therein, if such purses or premiums are raised only from voluntary subscription to the funds of the corporation, admission fees or fees for entering in such exhibition or trials."

On the strength of this, betting was begun, with three bookmakers. State officers made a "friendly" arrest of Rosenthal for a test case.

The intense humidity to-day caused the prostration of one man and the attempted suicide of another in Greater Boston to-day. There are prospects of little relief. The humidity at 10 o'clock was 87, while the normal is 70. At the same time yesterday it was 87. To-day's figure, 87, means that the air is laden with about 17 per cent. more moisture than is normal.

The weather bureau says that the forecast for to-day is generally cloudy with occasional showers to-night and Wednesday and with light west winds, becoming variable.

James W. O'Grady, Greater Boston's first heat victim to-day, became crazed by the heat in the car barn of the Newton Street Railroad Company in Waltham, by which he is employed at a motorman. O'Grady, early to-day, slashed himself across the throat with his jack-knife, just as he entered the car barn. He was taken to the Waltham Hospital, where it was found that his windpipe had nearly been severed, and that he would probably die.

O'Grady, who lives at No. 200 River street, West Newton, is about 47 years old. In time of service he is one of the oldest motormen on the Newton Street Railway line. He has a wife, two daughters, and one boy. There is no reason for O'Grady's attempting to take his own life, except the heat. He has had no domestic troubles, so far as known. Yesterday he was complaining of the heat and some of his associates to-day think that he was affected and that that was the cause of the deed.

MORE THAN 2,200 EARTHQUAKE DEAD IN CHILI

WILD SCENES OF GRIEF IN VALPARAISO

Twenty-five Thousand Homeless and Suffering From Southern Winter's Cold.

GHOULS PROMPTLY SHOT

VALPARAISO, Aug. 21.—It is now estimated that upward of 2,200 persons lost their lives as a result of the earthquake disaster in Chile. In Valparaiso the loss is put at 2,000; 170 perished at Limache, 11 at Petarca, 9 at La Placilla and 6 at La Calera. There was a further earth convulsion here on Saturday, which renewed the panic. At 2:20 a. m. yesterday there were two further convulsions at short intervals at Santiago, but they did no damage.

A dispatch from Santiago announces that the president of Chili, Señor Riesco, is proceeding to Valparaiso, accompanied by the ministers of the interior and of war, in order to supervise the relief work. President Roosevelt's message of sympathy was most gratefully received.

Escaped Convicts Shot.

Large parties of convicts who escaped from the prisons in Chili have been committing robberies and other crimes at Valparaiso, Casa Blanca and Vina del Mar, but the majority of them have been captured and summarily dealt with. Upward of fifty have been publicly shot.

With over half of the principal part of the city a mass of smouldering ruins, and with upwards of 25,000 of all classes homeless and suffering from the cold the work of succor to the living victims and the burying of the dead has commenced. While the earth shocks have ceased, the horror of the situation is not reduced.

To-day the searching parties, under the direction of the police and militia, are pulling over the ruins of such buildings where the fire has spent itself in the search for the dead.

Parents Wild With Grief.

Bodies are being constantly brought from the ruins, and the crowds about the rescuers are half wild with grief. Anxious husbands and wives, fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters are gathered about the places where they believe their loved ones went to their doom.

As fast as bodies are found they are taken to temporary morgues under police guard, and there the grief-stricken relatives are allowed to view the remains. In many cases the bodies are in such condition, either crushed by the heavy stones which fell from the buildings or half consumed by the fires which raged in the path of the quake, that recognition is impossible. Three hundred bodies were taken from the ruins yesterday.

The ruins of many of the buildings are still in such shape, smoking and now and then bursting into flames, that the rescue work will be hampered for some time. The water system has not yet been put into such condition as to allow the fire department to cope with these fires. In all probability they will be allowed to burn out.

Ghouls Begin Work.

It is now believed that the earthquakes have ceased. The city as a whole is calmer, not only through the announcement from the observatory that further shocks are improbable, but mainly through the horror of the situation which now confronts the people. Volunteers to the relief work are plentiful. Ghouls have already begun their work in the ruins, and the militia and police have orders to shoot them in their tracks.

The soldiers have shot a number of ladrones who were caught rifling the dead and robbing buildings, and their bodies were suspended from telephone poles at the street corners, bearing large placards reading "Por Ladrone"—a warning to looters.

The food question is partially relieved by the steps taken by the government, which has asked the Chilean Congress to appropriate $100,000,000 for the relief and reconstruction of the fated city. To-day meat is being distributed in the streets by order of the authorities, and train loads of provisions have been started on the way from Santiago. At present these trains are unable to get through, the tracks being bent, broken and twisted.

The steamship Peni has left this port for Talcahuano, and it is expected that within another twenty-four hours she will be back here with a load of provisions.

Santiago Aids Rescue.

Santiago is coming to the rescue of her suffering sister. Public subscriptions have been opened there for money, clothing and provisions, and the capital is caring for all refugees from Valparaiso who make their way across the mountains.

Relief is being organized with system and the government has taken complete control of the situation. The foreign legations are active in relief measures, as are private persons and the greatest energy is being devoted to getting supplies for the destitute.

Santiago suffered much less than Valparaiso. The number of dead in Santiago is now reported at twenty. A local relief committee has been organized, the street cars have resumed running and the normal aspect of that city is rapidly returning. Refugees from Valparaiso are entering in greater number every hour.

It is reported that six or eight towns in the stricken district have been destroyed, but details are still lacking. Vina del Mar, a suburb of Valparaiso, is almost entirely in ruins.

The Valparaiso property damage is estimated at from $200,000,000 to $300,000,000.

No Englishmen or Americans were killed or injured.

The loss at Santiago is estimated at $1,500,000.

At Abancay, the capital of the Peruvian department of Apurimac, earthquake shocks were felt on Friday and to-day.

CRUSOE'S ISLAND IS REPORTED SUNK

VALPARAISO, Aug. 21.—It is understood that the earthquake which swept this city also destroyed the island of Juan Fernandez, off the Chilian coast. The island belonged to Chili, and on it was a penal settlement and a fort. This is the island made famous by Daniel De Foe as the scene of the thrilling adventure of "Robinson Crusoe."

The island of Juan Fernandez, which has been reported swallowed by the sea again, was so reported just about ten years ago, on the occasion of another earthquake in Chili. A Spanish captain saw the island go under late in the year 1896, and many other ships arriving at New South Wales had word of it. No report has been received of its reerudescence.

The island is celebrated as a landmark of literature, for it was here that Alexander Selkirk, the quarrelsome sailing master of an English privateer, had himself marooned in 1704, on account of a disagreement with his commander, Captain Stradling. Here he remained four years and four months, and his journal, afterward published in London, is supposed to have suggested to De Foe the plot for the most widely known piece of fiction in the English language, "Robinson Crusoe."

Juan Fernandez is about 400 miles west from Valparaiso, a mere bit of volcanic rock thrown up by some eruption ages ago. It received its name from its discoverer, a Spanish navigator, who first landed there in 1563, and later revisited it to found a settlement, taking with him a few families and a number of goats. Eventually this colony was broken up and the settlers went to Chili.

Since the book "Robinson Crusoe" was written many ships have touched at Juan Fernandez. A cave has been picked out as "Robinson Crusoe's cave," and shown to visitors. In 1849 J. Ross Browne found sixteen persons living on the island, and last year the inhabitants were said to number about 100, all of them being Spanish fishermen.

TO RESUME BUSINESS IN VALPARAISO WITH OPENING OF BANKS

LONDON, Aug. 21.—The banks in Valparaiso, Chili, which was the scene of the earthquake disaster last Thursday night, will be open for business daily from 10 o'clock until 12. This decision has been reached by the managers of the banks and the information is conveyed in a cablegram to the Tarapaca and Argentina Bank here. The opening of the banks will mark the resumption of business in the city.

NEWBURYPORT, Aug. 21.—William Wheelwright of this city was one of the men who contributed to Chili's welfare. It was he who built the first railroad in that country, and in recognition of his valuable services a great statue was erected in his honor in the principal square of Valparaiso. This statue is reported wrecked by the earthquake.

CRAZED BY HEAT, MAN JUMPS BEFORE TRAIN

Edward Cahill of No. 145 Tyler street attempted suicide yesterday by jumping from the bridge over the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad tracks directly in front of a moving train. He was crazed by the heat, and is now under treatment at the City Hospital for sunstroke and severe contusions of the head and body. Several employes who had been watching his peculiar behavior on the bridge snatched him from the path of the engine.

ONE COFFIN HOLDS MOTHER AND CHILD

They were the wife and son of John Regan, secretary-treasurer of D. A. No. 30, K. of L. They were buried in the same casket.

STRUCK BY CRANK SHAFT OF STEAMER

Peter Dood, aged thirty-five, a fireman employed on the General Lincoln of the Nantasket line, was struck by a crank shaft while the steamer was at Rowe's Wharf early to-day and received a fractured skull. GRAND JURY TAKES CASES FROM JEROME

Weary of District Attorney's Ice Trust-Favoring Policy, Will Probe Independently.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—District Attorney Jerome's farcical investigation of the Ice Trust was brought summarily to an end yesterday by the Grand Jury, which took the case out of his hands and started an independent inquiry. It is expected indictments will follow promptly.

Jerome's persistent refusal to call any witnesses other than the officials of the accused trust, prompted this drastic action. For more than two weeks the jurors have been urging him to summon men from whom they were informed testimony could be obtained showing the commission of a crime.

Jerome temporized and evaded. He tried to induce the jury to accept his assurance that the trust had not conspired to raise the price of ice, and, therefore, that no indictments could be returned. When he found that this policy—the same that he used in the case of Perkins, accused of unlawfully appropriating the money of the New York Life for political purposes—was not convincing to the Grand Jury, Jerome became defiant.

At last the jurors, who had turned from Jerome to Judge Rosalsky for legal advice, thus attesting its lack of faith in the opinions of the District Attorney, grew tired of his trust-favoring policy.

THIS PROPHET TELLS WEATHER 2 YEARS AHEAD

Jersey Professor Scoffs At United States Bureau's Feeble Efforts.

WANTS BAY STATE JOB

The champion long-distance weather prophet has come out of New Jersey to demonstrate his powers to Governor Guild.

He is Professor Andrew J. Devoe and he has the weather figured out and all put down on paper for the next two years. To do this he impresses the sun, moon, stars and a few odd planets and satellites. But to forecast the weather for a week or so, he merely has to cast a casual look at high Heaven and, presto, there you are! When it comes to forecasting to-morrow's weather or the next day's, that's a mere trifle.

Professor Andy is a habitant of Hackensack, where the weather is pretty kinky at times. The Professor knows, however, that New England weather has more metrological curves in its makeup than any other kind. So, as a final test of his powers, he has come here to take a fall out of the New England brand.

Wants to Be State Prophet.

Also, he wishes to become State weather prophet for Massachusetts. He is willing to let Governor Guild put him through all sorts of tests. While he won't guarantee to tell the Governor what the political weather is to be this Fall, he will go as far as the Governor likes in legitimate forecasting.

Professor Andy scoffs at the puny efforts of the United States Weather Bureau. He calls attention to the fact that they cannot go more than a day or so ahead. And they have to do no end of figuring to do that. When they do work out a calculation they usually reserve the right to change the entire weather programme without notice.

Such feeble forecasting draws the Hackensack prophet's scorn. He is willing to give a positive prediction and go on record with it. For instance, he casually checks off the weather for the next month about as follows:

How He Figures It.

"The present hot wave will continue till the twenty-third. Cooler the twenty-fourth. Hottest day yet on the twenty-fifth. Continued hot till Labor Day. Labor Day brings heavy showers and thunder. September 4 to September 7, warm and showery. September 8 begins clearing weather. First frost September 17."

The professor puts it up to Local Forecaster Smith to beat that as a sample.

2 COUPLES IN THIS ROMANCE

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 21.—The culmination of a double romance which was laid in Massachusetts was a double marriage in this city of Miss Carrie May Blatchford and William Frederick Keough, and Miss Grace Ernestine Keough and William Delmont Blatchford. The Keoughs are sister and brother and so are the Blatchfords.

The young folks left their homes in Cambridge to visit friends here. A marriage had been previously agreed upon and while en route decided to make Trenton the place. They have returned to Cambridge to inform their people, who were in ignorance even of an engagement.

The change was decided upon as the result of a telegram from Senator Culberson, of Texas. President Roosevelt without delay directed the change.

It is stated at the War Department that the change will be only temporary.

"RED LIGHT" EDITORS NOW FACING JAIL

Magistrate Lashes New York Herald for Publication of Improper "Personals."

"GUILT IS INDISPUTABLE"

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The most severe arraignment any New York newspaper ever received from a judicial bench was contained in an opinion which City Magistrate Charles G. F. Wahle delivered yesterday in the Essex Market Court against the New York Herald for publishing obscene, lewd and lascivious "personals."

Magistrate Wahle declared it was absolutely indisputable that the "personals" against which complaint had been made were "obscene, lewd, lascivious and indecent."

The Court cited the case of Joseph R. Dunlop, of the Chicago Dispatch, who was imprisoned two years in Joliet and subjected to a heavy fine for publishing similar matter. He said the Herald had surpassed the Chicago Dispatch in the indecency of its advertisements, and that to pass them over "without condemnation would be a neglect of public duty."

Minister Brought the Charge.

The charge against the Herald was brought early last July by the Rev. Dr. Charles H. Grubb, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, in East One Hundred and Eighteenth street, and charged the violation of Section 317 of the Penal Code of the State, which prohibits the publication of obscene matter. The complaint followed a crusade against what came to be known as the New York Herald's "Red Light" column by the Anti-Vice Society and the New York American.

Because he found a crime had been committed which was far too grave to be punished by fine, Magistrate Wahle calls the attention of the criminal branch of the legal force of the county and State to the flagrant violations. He declared the law should pursue "the persons of those who inserted these advertisements and those individuals in the New York Herald corporation who are directly responsible for the spreading of this obscene matter in the city of New York." He dismissed the charge against the corporation on the ground that its intent had not been proved and that a fine, which is all the penalty that could be inflicted on a corporation as such, was not sufficient punishment under the circumstances.

Magistrate Wahle made it clear that if any of the members of the Herald corporation had been before him he would have held them for trial on a charge which involves not only fine, but imprisonment.

Serious Charge Pending.

An even more serious charge—that of sending obscene matter through the mails—is pending against five of the managers of the New York Herald in the Federal Court. It was brought by United postoffice inspectors, who arraigned T. H. Hamilton, editor; P. W. Schaefer, general manager; John T. Burke, night editor; George R. Miner, Sunday editor, and M. M. Gillam, advertising counsel, before Commissioner Shields and had them held for action of the October Federal Grand Jury.

William C. Reick, president of the Herald corporation, was in Europe conferring with James Gordon Bennett, who owns 994 shares of the Herald stock, when this action was brought. It was understood yesterday that his case will be brought before the Federal Grand Jury along with those of the other managers of the Herald when the United States District Attorney brings the matter before the Federal Grand Jury.

HOLD PRESIDENT IN $1,000,000 BANK CRASH

Leader of Liberal Party in Nova Scotia and Others Under Arrerst.

YARMOUTH, N. S., Aug. 21.—The arrest of Senator John Lovitt, one of the leaders of the liberal party of Nova Scotia, late yesterday, created a sensation throughout the province to-day, when the news became public. Senator Lovitt was president of the bank of Yarmouth, which failed on March 6, 1905, with liabilities of more than $1,000,000. The specific charge against the Senator is that of making false and deceptive returns concerning the bank's condition to the finance department of the federal government about one mouth prior to the failure of the bank.

The bank of Yarmouth closed its doors immediately after the failure of W. H. Redding & Sons, shoe manufacturers of this city, who were indebted to the amount of $600,000. At the time of the trouble Senator Lovitt was attending a session of the Senate in Ottawa. When the embarrassment of the Redding firm became known to the bank officials Senator Lovitt was sent for, but before he reached the city the bank had been closed and a receiver appointed.

The receiver chosen by the government was A. Stavert, manager of the bank of New Brunswick, and formerly manager of the Boston branch of the bank of Nova Scotia. When Receiver Stavert took charge of the institution he discovered a number of alleged irregularities. Paying Teller Johns was placed under arrest. The case against him is still pending.

The failures resulted in the embarassment of a number of local business men. The receiver of the bank assessed the stockholders 100 per cent. of their holdings, and a strong protest was made by many of those who owned stock in the bank.

The arrest of Senator Lovett was followed by that of A. Crowell, vice-president of the bank of Yarmouth, who was taken into custody on a similar charge.

RING ALARM FOR BLAZING AUTO

A large automobile, wrapped in a sheet of flame, dashing wildly down Milk street, threw that section into excitement about 10 o'clock to-day. Someone pulled the fire alarm and brought out the fire apparatus, but before the engines arrived a man with two hand extinguishers had put out the fire. The damage to the auto, which is numbered 0327, is about $50. It belongs to the Moody Automobile Company of Columbus avenue. The name of the chauffeur could not be learned. Leaking gasoline pipes caused the trouble.

EVERYBODY AT MAGNOLIA SMILES ON EMILY SARGENT AND HER TITLED FIANCE

All Turn to Look at Them When They Go Abroad. Met on Nile and Will Be Wedded Saturday.

MISS EMILY SARGENT & BARON KNOOP.

PET OF MAGNOLIA AND FIANCE AUTOMOBILING

On the good old principle that all the world loves a lover, both smart society and the general public alike are smiling on Miss Emily Sargent and her fiance, Baron John Ludwig Knoop, wherever they appear at Magnolia and Beverly.

Miss Sargent is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sargent, who have a Summer villa at Magnolia. Baron Knoop, who met Miss Sargent while she was travelling up the Nile with her parents, arrived here last Thursday from Europe, and was immediately taken to Magnolia, where he is the guest of the Sargents. The wedding is to take place Saturday, and, meanwhile, the young couple are enjoying the pre-nuptial period with happiness as frank as though the word "exclusive" had never been applied to either.

They can be seen almost any pleasant day out along Crescent Beach, autoing about the fine roads or sitting on the piazza of the Sergent villa.

They come out on Crescent Beach to watch the bathers in the morning hours. The baron, a smiling and rather rosy young man, smokes continually, evidently having a dispensation from his betrothed to enjoy his cigar while he is enjoying her company as well. In these hot days the Baron likes a comfortable combination of light grey sack coat and white flannel trousers, with a cap perched on his aristocratic head.

His fair fiancee, whose clear complexion and beautiful light hair are greatly admired, looks fetching in a white linen gown. Her straw hat is trimmed in a cool shade of green.

Everybody looks at them and they smile gaily at their acquaintances. Baron Rosen, the Russian ambassador, who is a frequent stroller up and down the beach with his little daughter, turns to look. So do the old-time habitues of the beach, who have been there year after year, and who have watched Emily Sargent grow from a prattling child, through girlhood up to the age of engagement and marriage.

When they do not care to go out, they seem to like the broad veranda of the Sargent villa. There is a spy glas on the veranda and the baron likes to watch the vessels coming and going off shore. Miss Sargent seems to be explaining to him often the names and owners of the crack yachts which speed luxuriously through the water.

HOME-COMING TEACHERS SING AMERICAN'S PRAISE

European and Shakesperian Tour Winners Enthusiastic Over Memorable Excursion'

Two groups of the teachers who were sent to Europe several weeks ago by the BOSTON AMERICAN are in Boston today.

Six of the Shakespearean tour teachers arrived on the Leyland Line Steamship Canadian, Captain W. W. Bullock, today, and eight of the ten winners of the European tour arrived last night. The Shakesperean tour teachers just arrived are Miss Gertrude T. Brennan, Woonsocket, R. I.; Bessie L. Churbuck, East Wareham; Nellie G. Connors, Brockton; Minnie E. Donovan, Quincy; Elizabeth Rogers, Charlestown, and Mary B. Tenney of Boston. Two of the Shakesperean tour teachers are still abroad. They are Miss Leonora Teasdale, of Clinton, who is in Scotland, and Miss W. May Nash, of Cambridge, who is in Ireland. Miss Teasdale sails for home to-morrow.

The eight teachers of the ten winners of the European tour arrived on the Red Star Line Steamship Manitou, Captain E. G. Cannons, last evening. Miss Madeline A. Foppiano, of Boston, remained in Italy to visit relatives and Miss Elizabeth T. Sharry of Worcester, is touring Ireland.

Charmed at Warwick Castle.

To a reporter for the BOSTON AMERICAN, Miss Nellie G. Connors, said:

"We had a perfectly delightful trip. I cannot find words with which to speak my gratitude toward the BOSTIN AMERICAN for the splendid trip which it gave the twenty Shakespearean teachers. There was not a dull moment during the whole time we were abroad.

"The experiences which we have had as guests of the BOSTO NAMERICAN will be pleasant and profitable memoreis for the rest of our lives. All of our party fell just as I do. We shall never forget the kindness of the BOSTON AMERICAN.

"We found London the most interesting of any city we visited in Europe. It was both beautiful and intensely interesting. We found Paris somewhat disappointing after our impressions of London. All of us agreed as to that and we were naturally surprised that this should be so. Of course Paris is a beautiful city and we would not have missed it for anything.

"Of all the single objects of interest which we visited and inspected I think that I may say that I was most pleased with splendid Warwick Castle. It is a delightful old pile and I should have loved to have spent a whole week there.

Sighted Ice Mountain.

"Both of our ocean voyages were delightful. On our return voyage we had an unusual experience, and one which we would not have foregone for anything. Last Friday, while off the Grand Banks, we passed one of the greatest icebergs that the officers of the Canadian have ever seen. It was most grand and stately. I find that words fail me when I try to describe that towering mountain of glistening ice.

"We knew long before we saw the berg that we were nearing it, for the air began to grow cold and by the time it did come into our range the air was really cold as it blew over the huge berg."

Captain Bullock of the Canadian said:

"The BOSTON AMERICAN teachers were the life of the ship. They entertained everyone and made the voyage one to be remembered for its pleasure. They added to the voyage immensely and we shall hate to part with them."

Aid Seaman's Charity Fund.

Miss Bessie L. Churbuck took part in last Saturday night's concert for the Seaman's Charity Fund. She read several selections and her part of the performance was appreciated keenly by the large audience of first cabin passengers.

Aboard the Canadian was baggage belonging to Miss Helen M. Cogan, Miss Edith Farrington, Miss Ellenette Pillsbury and Miss Alice J. O'Gara, which had been left behind when they sailed from Liverpool when the first party of the Shakespearian teachers returned home.

Most Delightful Trip.

Those who returned on the Manitou were: Miss Ella M. Brotchie of Waltham; Miss Madeline G. Cass of Woonsocket; Miss Violet Creber of Roxbury; Miss Catherine H. Hallowell of Providence, R. I.; Miss Alice V. McGourty of Worcester; Miss Catherine L. Moynihan of Berlin, N. H.; Miss Rachael Rosnosky of Roxbury, and Mrs. E. Idella Seldis of Boston.

To a reporter for the BOSTON AMERICAN Mrs. Seldis said:

"Oh, we have had a most delightful trip. There has been absolutely nothing to mar it from the day we sailed away from Boston seven weeks ago until our arrival home. Not one of us has had a day's sickness. The trip over and back was ideal. Without an exception, every hotel or inn we stopped at gave us excellent accommodations. In every instance our guides were university men, well versed in history, art and literature, besides being well-bred and pleasant companions.

Miss Cass the Historian.

Miss Cass was the historian of our party, and she has taken shorthand notes voluminously, so that when she transcribes them we will have a full and, no doubt, graphic history of our adventures. We visited England, France, Switzerland Germany and Belgium, and it would be difficult to say which country pleased us best.

"Last Saturday we held a vaudeville entertainment in the saloon of the Manitou in aid of nautical charities. Miss Brotchie, Miss Rosnosky, Miss Creber, Miss Anna Hall, and myself, all of us Bostonians, organized the concert and were the principal performers. Miss Brotchie, who was unanimously voted the prettiest girl on the ship, posed in several striking tableaux. Miss Rosnosky showed great skill as a prestidigitator. Miss Hall, Miss Creber and the others sang, took part in charades, accompanied other performers on the piano and made themselves generally entertaining.

"Mr. J. E. Rosselle, a New York merchant, read several "Lively Limericks," composed by myself. The distribution of prizes won at the different deck games played on the voyage was also a part of the entertainment. Miss Rosnosky, Miss Cass and myself were winners of one or more prizes.

Party Was Congenial.

"Our party could not have been more congenial. There was a maximum of good nature and a minimum of grumbling. In fact, if one had been disposed to grumble she would have received no encouragement from the others, for we had all made up our minds to take things as they came and make the best of everything. But really, there was nothing to grumble about. The trip was as nearly perfect as any human endeavor could make it. We all feel under deep obligation to the BOSTON AMERICAN. This trip meant much to all of us, and we cannot express our gratitude too strongly."

Captain Cannons, in speaking of the AMERICAN'S teachers, said:

"They were a happy, jolly party and the life of the trip. It was a pleasure to have them on board ship. The concert they gave Saturday night was the finest ever given on the Manitou since she has been under my command. This is the unanimous opinion of all the officers of the ship, so you can see that it must be true."

CRAMPS DROWN ELDERLY MAN

FALL RIVER, Aug. 21.—Edward Merriman, an elderly man, of No. 35 Sprague street, was drowned near Staples' Globe wharf yesterday, being attacked with cramps while in swimming.

LOBBYISTS LINE UP FOR WHITNEY

Railroads Aid Franchise Grabber Who Wants to Be Governor.

Agents for Henry M. Whitney are now touring the wards of Boston, "laying pipes" for the purpose of carrying the caucuses, which send delegates to Tremont Temple convention.

The Boston caucuses will be held on September 25 and it is believed that the gang working under the direction of Ben Gibbey will have completed all the connections before that time.

Whitney men are beginning to work the usual bluffs for winning delegates and everywhere the story has been spread that he is a very generous man, and the hint has been thrown out that there may be "something doing" for his friends if he can only carry the Boston caucuses.

The news is being industriously circulated that Mayor Fitzgerald wants Whitney to carry the Boston caucuses, and it has become clear that the mayor's ward workers are being lined up for the lord of Cohasset.

Henry Bowden of Boston, one of the quiet lobbyists of the State House, has been given a place on the Gibbey staff, it is said, and will have charge of the Adams House end of the game when Ben is busy on the outside. Neither Gibbey or Bowden have ever been classed as Democrats and it is explained that they are for Whitney for business and not for political reasons.

Railroads Want Him.

The latest and most interesting bit of information relative to the Whitney candidacy is to the effect that he Roson & Maine railroad wans him. Mr. Whiney is interested in the Boston & Maine and President Lucius Tuttle of the railroad is interested in him.

Disclaiming that he appeared in behalf of the Boston & Maine Railroad, when he spoke against the anti-merger bills, at the committee hearings held in the State House last June, Mr. Whitney went on record as being unswervingly opposed to any law which would prevent railroads from gobbling up street railways.

He criticised the tendency of legislation toward controlling the large railroad companies, on the ground that it frightened away investing capital and was bad from the business point of view. Inasmuch as legislation to prevent merging of railroads and street railways and legislation that will hit hard the fake "holding companies," through which merging is possible, and the laws of the Commonwealth set at naught, are to be among the most important features with which the next Legislature will have to deal, it can easily be seen how deeply interested in the nomination and election of Whitney the great railroads of the State must be.

That they are is a fact. That he is the candidate of the railroads for the purpose of defeating all anti-merger legislation, if elected, and not the disinterested statesman the Gaston, Quincy Company (Ltd.), brokers in State street Democratic politics would have the people believe, is recognized by all politicians in close touch with the real conditions.

Prefer Guild to Moran.

The railroads are not in love with Guild, but prefer him to Moran. In preference to both they want Whitney and they are going to do all in their power to elect him. With the lobbyists for the Boston & Maine, the New York, New Haven & Hartford and the New York Central working through the State for Whitney, he will have a corps of agents hard to match. They are equally as capable in "working" political deals as they are in "working" the country legislators, and they are recognized as past masters in the art of smoothness.

The opinion prevails at Democratic headquarters that Moran has held his own all right in Boston despite the splurge over the Whitney candidacy. The effect of the Whitney announcement is wearing off and Moran is looming up stronger than ever in the districts outside of Boston that have been heard from. In the Western part of the State the feeling against Whitney and his legislative methods on various occasions is intense, and the desire for a shaking up of the party organization is strong.

Leading Republican politicians are freely admitting that Governor Guild is very weak at this stage of the game, and their only hope of electing him is the split in the Democratic party. Ex-Attorney-General Herbert Parker says that Guild could be beaten this year if the Democrats were united.

BLIND, LAME, CURED AT STE. ANNE SHRINE

Marvelous Restoration to Two Massachusetts Men in Pilgrim Party.

ST. ANNE DE BEAUPRE, Que., Aug. 21.—Two astonishing cures of invalid Massachusetts men were affected at the shrine of Ste. Anne here yesterday. Physicians are surprised and the entire Massachusetts delegation is filled with amazement and joy.

James Kelley, an elderly Jamaica Plain man, who could not move his left leg for twenty years, was cured while making the Stations of the Cross.

He was walking about last evening as regularly as a man in good health two score years his junior. He is not even lame. Claiming that he feels better than for thirty years, he is devoutly engaged in prayers of thankfulness.

His friends who have known him for years and have seen him limping about Boston's streets with pitiful exertion can hardly believe their own eyes.

Joseph Baldwin, age nineteen, of West Lynn had his left eye restored to sight and distinct sense of color at the Basilica. The young man is unable to comprehend the reality of the situation, and he, too, is offering prayers of gratitude.

Young Baldwin was born blind. At the age of seven years his sight in his right eye was partially restored through prayers of the Redemptionist fathers of the Mission Church, Roxbury. He remained color-blind, however, and suffered considerably from illusions.

Now his sight is restored so that he can see as well as anyone, although his eyeballs and lids are still sore.

When he realized that his sight was restored and could discern accurately the priests in prayer at the altar steps, his joy knew no bounds.

At this, too, the Bay State visitors marvel. Natives of this place, who have witnessed other cures, declare that Baldwin's was one of the most remarkable within their recollection.

After high mass to-day the party of Bay State pilgrims will start for home.

"I have read of miracles in the Bible and in religious stories, but I never could realize what they meant, until I had an actual experience of my own observation," declared one well known woman in the Boston party. "The cures of Baldwin and Kelley seem almost incredible."

GOVERNOR BACK AT WORK.

Governor Curtis Guild, Jr., has returned from his trip to the Maine woods and is back at his desk at the State House.

NERVY BURGLAR KEEPS BUSY AS PEOPLE WATCH

Then Leisurely Walks Out of Jamaica Plain Store and Disappears.

POLICE GET WORD LATE

One of the nerviest burglars who ever robbed in Boston proceeded calmly about his plundering early to-day in the tailor shop of Abraham Goldberg of No. 3142½ Washington street, Jamaica Plain, although he knew at the time he had been discovered by neighbors and was being watched. He knew that he had inspired them with terror and that they were afraid to either seize him or give an alarm.

Police consider housebreakers as a most desparate class and famous Inspector Byrnes once advised the public never to grapple with such marauders, as they are likely to shot and stab sooner than submit to arrest.

This burglar gathered all the garments he could carry into a big bundle and coolly walked out into the street, boarded a trolley car and rode in town. He had gained entrance to thes tore by using a jimmy on a rear door. He looted the premises as leisurely and unconcerned as if he had been the owner.

Neighbors who saw him depart with his booty say he is of medium height and dark complexion. He had a black moustache and heavy eyebrows and wore a cap and dark clothing. The alarm did not reach the police until after neighbors had seen the buglar get on a car.

FOUND DEAD BODY ON COWCATCHER

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 21.—On the arrival of the West bound Boston and Albany express here last night the mutilated body of an unknown man was found wedged in the cowcatcher.

GET ALLEGED GEM THIEF IN LIVELY SPRINT

Grace, Charged With Stealing Diamond Rings, Captured by Inspectors.

LEADS POLICE A HOT RACE

Frank Grace, alias Frank Lomba, a good-looking, neatly dressed colored man, about twenty-four years of age, who was born in Portugal, was arrested to-day by Inspectors Shields, Sheehan and Pierce at Washington and Hanover street after a lively sprint. The man is charged with stealing valuable diamond rings from at least two Boston jewelers by a slight of hand trick, which he works to perfection.

Complaints regarding this man had been coming in to Chief Watts for at least six weeks. For over a week the three inspectors have been after the man and to-day they saw him on Washington street, near Hanover. The man saw the inspectors at the same time and started off at a lively clip.

Pell mell after him rushed the three inspectors, and Inspector Shields, who is the oldest of the three, proved that he had not forgotten how to sprint. He soon outdistanced his associates and collared the young man.

Grace was taken to the police headquarters and locked up. He is charged for the present with taking a diamond ring valued at $82 from the jewelry store of Thomas Long, Summer street, last Tuesday, and another diamond ring from the store of John R. Knight, No. 491 Hanover street, on August 6.

It is alleged that Grace would go to a store, and under the pretence of wanting to buy a diamond ring for a sweetheart, look over the trays of rings, slip a good paste imitation into the box and pocket the real thing.

The inspectors declare that Grace has served two terms in the House of Correction and one in the reformatory.

REBELS IN CUBA START CIVIL WAR

being the first to cross the Spanish trocha, is in command of the rebels. He started the uprising with a force of about twenty-five men which he gathered about him at Arroyo Arenas, twelve miles west of Havana. As they marched west into the adjoining province they were joined by other bands armed with guns and ammunition, which had been sent to them by sympathizers in this city.

Fifty rural guards from Havana and one hundred from Santa Clara were dispatched in pursuit yesterday. When these form a junction with the rural guards already in the province, which are said to number about 450, an engagement with the rebels may be expected. This is all the troops that are available for the crisis.

A special session of the Senate and House of Representatives was convened yesterday afternoon, and considered the situation in secret.

CUSTOMS OFFICERS ARMED.

All the customs employes have been armed, as the customs are almost the sole source of revenue for the government. Heavy guards have been thrown around the treasury.

Seditious proclamations are constantly being posted on the walls and secretly distributed in the streets. The movement is believed to be financed from New York and other foreign cities.

Castillo and Gomez, who were arrested yesterday, disclaim all treasonable designs. They assert that their sole activity was in the reorganization of the Liberal party. The same plea will be made by others who are in custody. The two illustrious prisoners were brought to Havana yesterday in a special train from Santiago, heavily escorted.

There were two fights Monday at San Juan and Martinez. The rurales captured two rebels, but the casualties are not known. The insurrectionists were said to number 250.

President Palma last night appointed General Rafael Montalvo, Secretary of Public Works, to be in direct charge of all military operations against the insurgents. He also decreed the increase of the rural guard to 4,000, the number contemplated in the bill introduced at the last session of Congress.

General Jose Miguel Gomes reported to have joined revolutionists.

President Palma issues decree increasing rural guards 2,000 men.

Several fights reported in Pinar del Rio Province.

TUESDAY, Aug. 21.—Colonel Guerra, at head of over 400 men, reported marching on Pinar del Rio city. Rebels plan to make city their headquarters.

Rebels plan attacks on American property owners to force intervention.

President Palma decides to call extra session of Congress to vote raising of volunteer army to put down revolution.

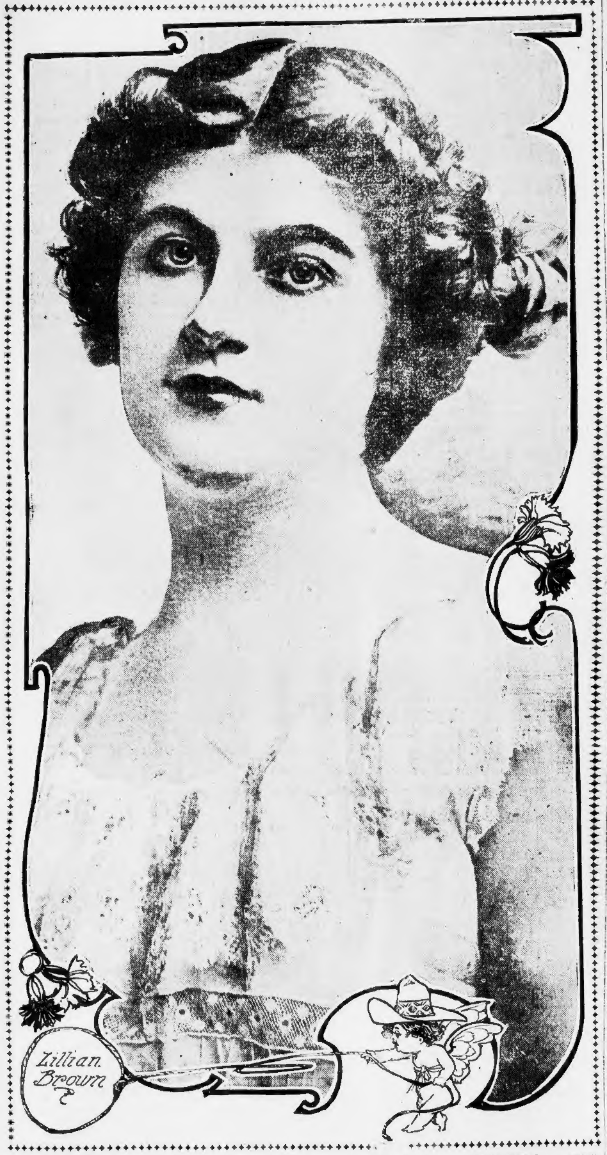
"LONESOME WIDOWS" EUCHRE MERCHANTS OUT OF $100,000



COMPANION OF MRS. VERRAULT OF "MATRIMONIAL TRUST" FAME.

Further Evidence Against the Dashing Mrs. Verrault and Her Companion.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Revelations regarding the winsome "widows" at No. 323 West Eighty-second street, made yesterday to Assistant United States District Attorney Carmody, indicated that the fair Mrs. Verrault and her companion, Mrs Izella Brown, had euchred New York merchants out of goods aggregating $100,000 in value.

The goods, it is said, were obtained on the instalment plan, a small payment being made on delivery, under contract that the balance be made good in monthly instalments. These were never paid, it is charged, and yet the scheme was engineered so ingeniously that the losers never were able to fix upon the guilty persons.

Attracted to "Lonesome Widow."

The meshes of the Federal government tightened even more closely about Mrs. Bina F. Verrault, alias "Mrs. Helen Hamilton," yesterday, when another alleged victim of her matrimonial schemes was discovered. He is S. S. Snider, a prominent official of the Northwestern Life Insurance Company. Snider, until July 1, last, occupied an apartment at No. 117 Manhattan avenue.

Snider is a Canadian and came to New York two years ago from Toronto, Ont. He, too, was attracted by the "Lonesome Widow" personal that Mrs. Verrault had published and he readily made her acquaintance. He knew the woman as "Mrs. Montgomery," under which name she first masqueraded to Count Zalinoff.

Mr. Snider proposed marriage. With a sigh "Mrs. Montgomery" accepted his heart and hand. No man was happier than the Canadian when, on the next day, he gave his affianced bride a sparkling diamond engagement ring, a trinket valued at $200.

But almost immediately afterward "Mrs. Montgomery" changed her habits. She was never in when he called; she never answered his letters. At last these were returned unopened.

Reports Her to the Police.

And then, in his awakened anger, Snider reported the affair to Police Headquarters.

Detectives of the West Sixty-eighth street station were assigned on the case, but in the interim the Seventy-third street house had been vacated. Boards barred its windows; cobwebs stretched across its threshold. Nor could any clew be obtained regarding its former occupant. Snider had seen nothing of Mrs. Brown.

The scheme by which, it is said, merchants were euchred out of their just dues was remarkable in its daring. Articles of every description, furniture, rugs, silverware, linen, books, were ordered on the instalment plan. According to the Federal authorities these goods, when delivered at No. 114 West Seventy-third street, would not be unpacked, but a day later would be shipped to a storage house. There they would be left for a few days, when, it is said, they would be brought back to the house, unpacked, recrated and shipped to Boston or Chicago. Bill collectors, according to the charges, would be told that "Mrs. Brown had just gone out."

Tried to Throw Them Out.

It was in September that Mrs. Brown, a native of Nova Scotia, received an unexpected call from two of her brothers, Samuel W. Mason and Joseph A. Mason. They cut curious figures in their rough clothing, for the two are fishermen, typical trawlers of the gulf of St. Lawrence.

Their presence was unwelcome to both Mrs. Verrault and Miss Lillian B. Brown. Neither hid the fact of her resentment, and, finally bringing Mrs. Brown to their point of view, all openly rebelled. The visitors were asked to leave the house. They first refused to do so, and Robert Emmett Keene, general handy man around the house, attempted to throw them out. But in the encounter he fared badly.

On September 18 last the police records show that Samuel W. Mason was arrested on complaint of Keene, charged with assault. When arraigned before Magistrate Moss, in the West Side Court, he was held in $500 bail, but the case was dismissed in special sessions. On September 19 Joseph A. Mason was arrested on complaint of Miss Lillian B. Brown, charged with creating a disturbance and refusing to leave the house when asked to do so. He was fined $5. Following that bitter taste of their sister's hospitality, the two brothers left for home.

THINKS CHELSEA BANK WILL PAY DEPOSITORS ALL

Some of the Stockholders Discuss Plan to Bring Suit Against Directorate.

APSEY FOR RECEIVER

Misapprehension as to the effect on the accounts of depositors if they accepted the offer of the Winnisimmet Bank to advance 50 per cent. of their deposits in the First National Bank of Chelsea caused several hasty conferences of some of the depositors, who met by mere chance yesterday.

A statement by George D. Emery, one of the directors of the First National Bank, and a man whose very large business property in Chelsea has established a strong confidence in him on the part of Chelsea people, expressing his belief that the depositors will be paid in full, was a reassuring feature of the day's developments.

Examiner Ewer and Mr. Lyon of the comptroller's office at Washington worked at the bank all day until the early evening. Mr. Ewer had no statements to make to reporters.

Although the depositors in the wrecked bank are not worrying excessively now, in view of the action of the Winnisimmet Bank, the stockholders living in Chelsea are much alarmed by the persistent rumor that they will probably be assessed the par value of their stock. Although the extent of their obligations cannot be determined for some time, there are already suggestions that these stockholders may get together and formulate a plan by which they may recover damages from the directors of the First National, under whose guidance, or lack of guidance, the institution went "on the rocks." Whether an action would lie against the directors in the premises is a question which some of the stockholders are said to have already asked their attorneys.

Hon. Albert S. Apsey, a Boston lawyer, residing in Cambridge, was yesterday afternoon appointed permanent receiver of the First National Bank. The appointment was made by Acting Comptroller of the Currency Kane at Washington.

NEWPORT BABE BARELY SAVED

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Andrews are congratulating themselves to-day upon the fortunate manner in which their little daughter escaped from being trampled to death under the feet of the horse which had taken a sudden fright and overturned the phaeton in which little Miss Andrews and her nurse were riding.

Miss Andrews, who is also the granddaughter of Mrs. Frank W. Andrews of Boston, was picked from under the horse's feet by a number of men headed by Elisha Dyer, Jr.

RHODE ISLAND FOOD PRICES SOAR WITH ICE

TRUST CAUSES RISE IN EVERYTHING THAT NEEDS COLD FOR PRESERVATION.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 21.—Prices of all commodities that depend upon the free use of ice for their preservation are soaring to-day in Rhode Island as the result of the increase in ice rates announced yesterday by the various companies which depend upon the American Ice Company, the trust, for their supply. In Pawtucket, early to-day, ice cream and soda water dealers proclaimed an advance in the cost of these luxuries as the result of the increased cost of ice. It is feared that milk, fruit and meat dealers will follow their example all over Rhode Island.

The report of George H. Webb, State Commissioner of Industrial Statistics, which accused the American Ice Company of restricting the output of ice so as to cause an artificial famine, is the almost universal topic of discussion all over Rhode Island to-day. The revelations he made regarding conditions of the ice business in Rhode Island are considered as conclusively convicting the monopoly.

TO CREATE FALSE FAMINE.

The report said:

"It is believed in Maine that the American Ice Company has purposely restricted the ice crop to create a shortage in the Northern States."

Mr. Webb's clerk, Mr. Greenlaw, who investigated the Maine situation, found that there were 10,000 tons of ice in Portland, 15,000 tons at Bangor, 2,000 tons at Augusta, 1,500 tons at Lewiston and about 20,000 tons at other points in the State which could have been bought at the time of the harvest at an average of about $1 a ton.

"This ice could have been shipped to Providence by water for sixty cents to $1 a ton, and the shrinkage would not have average over 20 per cent."

The report said that at all of these places the harvest for 1906 was not so large as it could have been.

PEOPLE ULTIMATE VICTIMS.

No matter what the justice of the arraignment of the ice trust by Commissioner Webb may be, the dealers who buy from the trust are compelled to put up prices all over the state or go out of business. At present, the people are equally helpless, although there is a feeling that an outrage is being calmly perpetrated and that they are the final victims.

That all supplies which depend upon ice for preservation will cost the consumer more than they should, many of these being essentials to life and comfort, like milk, for instance, seems almost inevitable, as the prices to be paid for ice now will make the dealers do this as a matter of sheer self-preservation.

The news from Pawtucket that prices on ice cream and soda water are already soaring, is generally regarded as the forerunner of like action in every part of the State and well grounded fear is that the increases will affect the essentials of life as well as the luxuries.

Amounts of Ice on Hand.

There was on hand in this city March 1 last an estimated total of 127,905 tons to supply an estimated consumption of 103,388 tons, while in the remainder of the State there was an estimated supply of only 34,035 tons, not including artificial ice, for an estimated need of 75,562 tons.

From the figures obtained from a number of cities, Colonel Webb deduces that the estimated cost of $3.65 a ton for ice harvested in Rhode Island is "exceedingly high." He finds also that, while there has been plenty of ice obtainable in Maine for from $3.70 to $5 a ton delivered here, there has been only one inquiry from this city or State for Maine ice, and that was for only 2,000 tons, and resulted in no sale. This is taken to mean that no attempt has been made to obtain cheaper ice for the people of this city and State.

RHODE ISLAND ICE TRUST CHIEF CALLS CHARGE 'PURE ROT'

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—"Rot, all rot; just plain rot," is the way Wesley M. Oler, president of the American Ice Company, commented upon the report of Colonel George H. Webb, Commissioner of Industrial Statistics of Rhode Island, concerning the advance in prices for ice which the trust has ordered for Rhode Island.

Of the arraignment of the trust in which it is charged by Colonel Webb with making an artificial ice famine by not cutting ice enough to supply its customers, President Oler contented himself with pronouncing it as "rot, all rot; just plain rot," and then refused to say another word.

MAN RESCUED A MILE ASTERN

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 21.—Night watchman McFarlane of the steamer Pretoria fell overboard while on the trip here from Boston. He was not missed for nearly a minute; then the steamer was sent full speed astern for a mile and a boat was lowered. After a long search McFarlane was found as he was about to give up, his strength being exhausted.

THUNDER CRASH WRECKS HOUSE; SCORE IN RUINS

One Man Dying in Haverhill Hosoital; Several Women Hurt in Collapse.

BUILDING WAS CONDEMNED

HAVERHILL, Aug. 21.—In the collapse of a four-story vacant tenement house on River street yesterday, in the heart of the Jewish and Polish quarter, over a score of persons were buried in the ruins and a half dozen were badly hurt. The building was long ago condemned and an extra heavy clap of thunder is supposed to have shaken it so that it was demolished. The crash came at a time when nearly 10,000 merrymakers were on the streets, enjoying an Italian festival and band concert. Two men, two women and a girl, who were in the building collecting firewood, were among those buried in the debris.

One man, Kazmer Zimaltis, was taken out badly crushed and taken to the Hale Hospital, where he is dying. One woman, unknown, was badly hurt, but managed to crawl out of the ruins and dragged herself off to her home. The neighbors insist that there is another woman still under a pile of debris, but if she is at the point they indicate, she certainly is dead.

The house has been repeatedly condemned by the inspector of buildings as unsafe, but the owner, Andrew J. Tilton, a prominent real estate man, appealed from the decision.

The firemen and police were nearly two hours getting Zamaltis out of the wreck. He was pinned down by a huge beam across his shoulders and one across his legs. His daughter saw the building fall and knew that her father was inside. Her husband, Michael Bankus, ran down stairs and peered through the tangled wreckage and saw his father-in-law far in under the debris and heard him moaning and calling for help.

Before the firemen could saw through the beams to release him he suffered from thirst and called for water, and the son-in-law with a tin pail full of water wormed his way through timbers at imminent peril of his life and gave Zamaltis a drink.

Besides Zimaltis, those rescued were Annie Zimaltis, his daughter, aged twelve; Antella Mekelonis, No. 125 River street, and Mike Amaltis, No. 108 River street. Their injuries were slight.

LOCAL THEATRES BEGIN THEIR REGULAR SEASON

COMEDY WEEK BRINGS LAUGHS TO KEITH'S

Parody on "Waiting at the Church" the Hit in Strong Bill.

SWORD PLAY A FEATURE

This is "comedy" week, evidently, at Keith's Theatre, for there is a laugh in every act, and all are good. Hoey and Lee head the bill in some unusually good Hebrew delineations, and their parody on the newest song, "Waiting at the Church," makes any one forget that it is hot and humid outside. Second in interest are the Ellis-Nowlan trio, comedy acrobats. Other humorists in the bill are Murry K. Hill, in monologue; Carle Cooke, in some very clever imitations; Murphy and Andrews, and Cunningham and Smith, with a hodge-podge of drolleries. The sketch feature is "At the Point of the Sword," a dramatic playlet, capitally given by Murray Carson, Miss Esme Berringer and Martin Henry. The four Melvins and the Hurleys provide the principal "sight" acts. The Fadettes played one of their most pleasing programs.

MARY YOUNG MAKES PERFECT PARTHENIA

Those persons who have an idea that Mary Young's forte is only singing and dancing should see her play Parthenia in "Ingomar" at the Globe Theatre this week. She returned to the East last night and gave the sweetest, most sincere and one of the best acted Parthenias that Boston playgoers have seen in a long time. She had just the right conception of the part and her inflection and grace were, as a woman auditor said, "just simply perfect." John Craig played Ingomar with good judgment, especially in his moments of assumed rage, and William Humphrey can cut a new notch in his stick of successes, for his Polydor was a distinct success. Thomas MacLarnie, Mary Sanders, Mabel Colcord had little to do, and William Evarts might have done his a little less amateurishly.

HUNDREDS STAND TO HEAR OPERA

For the final week of the opera season at the Castle Square, "Pinafore" and "Cavelleria Rusticana" were revived for two performances, beginning last night. This double bill was even more popular than when previously played at this house, every seat in the theatre being occupied, while hundreds stood. Otis B. Thayer sang the role of Sir Joseph, and W. H. Clarke was a new Dick Deadeye. Mary Carrington sang Josephine and Hattie Belle Ladd the Little Buttercup. Clara Lane, J. K. Murray and Hattie Belle Ladd had the chief roles in "Cavalleria." This bill will be repeated to-night and to-morrow afternoon and evening, on Thursday "Trovatore" is the bill and Friday and Saturday comes "The Bohemian Girl."

BURGLAR'S DAUGHTER FULL OF THRILLERS

"Bill Leary," "Shifty Jake," "Rev. John Sterling," "Meg of Mullercy Bend," "Mother Durk"—these are only a few of the typical names of typical characters in "The Burglar's Daughter," a Laura Jean Libby melodrama which opened at the Grand Opera House last night. It is full of thrillers, while combining pathos and comedy effectually. The heroine is the daughter of the burglar, who spends her life trying to right the wrongs done by her father, while she suffers from the stigma of being his child.

WESTERN WHEEL A HIT IN PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 21.—The Imperial, formerly the Shubert, was opened yesterday as a burlesque house, with the "Miss New York, Jr." burlesquers, one of the big shows of the Western wheel, as the attraction. The entertained seemed to suit the fancy of the patrons and success is predicted for the venture. This company will open the season at the Columbia in Boston next Monday afternoon.

Mary Anderson's Real Successor May Be Eugenie Thaïs Lawton

Pretty Kentuckey Actress, Who Will Head Castle Spuare Cast, Already Famous.

Boston theatregoers are to have the pleasure of seeing a youthful actress who is hailed as the successor of Mary Anderson.

She also has the somewhat rare distinction of having been encouraged toward a stage career by the late Joseph Jefferson.

Such is Miss Thais Lawton, the new leading lady at the Castle Square Theatre.

Miss Lawton is a Kentucky girl, born in Louisville 25 years ago—with apologies to Miss Lawton for thus revealing her age.

Six years ago, at a time when amateur theatricals were "the thing" in Louisville society, she appeared in a dramatic performance given by members of her set. In this production Miss Lawton made her stage debut, acting several scenes from "Macbeth" and from "Pygmalion and Galatea."

Her success was flattering. Louisville, which stood sponsor for Mary Anderson when that famous actress first appeared in public, turned to Miss Lawton with generous applause, hailing her as Mary Anderson's successor.

And this complimentary prediction was accompanied by an immediate bit of praise from Joseph Jefferson.

That remarkable actor happened to be in the audience when Miss Lawton appeared. He was considerably impressed, sought an introduction to Miss Lawton and said to her:

Praised by Jefferson.

"My dear child, you have every reason to adopt the stage for your profession. I advise you to do it. Believe me, if I did not think that you were capable of gaining a very high place I should not tell you this. If you do not make a very great success I shall be greatly surprised. I know of no young woman on the stage who could have done what you have done to-day."

Everybody knows how chary great actors are of advising young people to go on the stage. The impression that Miss Lawton's amateur efforts made upon the critical "Rip Van Winkle" may be estimated from the unqualified praise he gave her.

Though the venture from the shelter of home and society life in Louisville to the uncertainties of a stage career was considerable for Miss Lawton, she sensibly decided to follow Mr. Jefferson's advice promptly. The result is said to have justified her wisdom and the praise Mr. Jefferson gave her.

For the past four seasons she has been playing "leads" with the Belasco stock company in Los Angeles and San Francisco. Previous to that she was the leading lady with Joseph O'Neill and also played an important part in "Last River."

A manager of a local theatre, in speaking recently of her career, said:

"Her stage presence is wonderfully attractive and she loses herself in every character. She was born for the stage."

MME MARY ANDERSON DE NAVARRO
MISS THAIS LAWTON

YOUNG KENTUCKY ACTRESS WHO COMES TO HEAD CASTLE SQUARE, AND WOMAN SHE MAY SURPASS.

Hopes to be Liked.

So much for the success of the girl who attracted the critical attention of Joseph Jefferson.

Of a new leading lady a community generally asks: "Is she good looking?"

Miss Lawton comes from Kentucky.

In manner she is quiet and reserved. She is fond of home life and secures it as far as she can, considering the exegencies of a theatrical career. She has just taken apartments on a quiet Back Bay street where she will set up her household gods and try to have a domestic existence, apart from her profession.

It is a far cry from Los Angeles to Boston and Miss Lawton was fond of the West. But she likes Boston already. Speaking of her coming here she says:

"I like Boston. I hope the liking will be mutual, of course."

Will Swear When Necessary.

Miss Lawton thinks as well as acts. For instance, at the Castle Square, she will be required to interpret one or more heroines who do not hesitate, now and then, to give voice to the strong language bequeathed to us by our English forefathers.

And will she balk at the task? Not a bit of it. When she acts Mistress Nell, in which role she will make her debut at the Castle Square, she will don boy's clothes and be the hoyden Nell Gwynne to the life as she consigns all her enemies to perdition.

"Why should I be reluctant to act Nell Gwynne as she is," she says. "For the time being I am not Miss Lawton. I am the fascinating Mistress Nell of the play. As Mary Tudor in 'When Knighthood Was in Flower' there are not a few oaths. I rave, I weep, I plead, I laugh, I cry and I even swear. It is by that means that the gentler moods and the sweet femininity of Mary Tudor is emphasized. No, I am sure that oaths are not out of place on the stage. But there should be discretion in the use of them."

2 ANSWER CHARGE OF 'GRAVEYARD' INSURANCE

MAN AND WOMAN ACCUSED OF FORGING APPLICATION FOR POLICY.

Charged with being involved in one of the so-called "graveyard" insurance cases, which have cost Boston life companies thousands of dollars in the past two years, Mrs. Mary A. Tennyson of No. 268 Commercial street and her brother, Dennis Griffin, were in the Boston Municipal court to-day to answer to a complaint that they were privy to an alleged forgery of an application for $3,000 on b[e]half of Griffin.

The case was continued a week. Its outcome will be watched with interest by every life underwriter in Boston. The police, having brought the two defendants into court, are waiting to get a man called Thomas Nelson, who is alleged to have impersonated Griffin in the application and examination for the policy.

Griffin Very Ill.

The policy in question was applied for to the local agents of the New York Life Insurance Company. The application was made out in the name of Griffin, the police says. Griffin is said to be very ill. To get around this difficulty the man named Nelson, who is in good health, is declared to have impersonated Griffin to fool the underwriters and the examining physician.

Nelson is at sea now, but is expected soon, when he will be questioned in the hope of unearthing more evidence in the matter.

Within a year Mrs. Tennyson has been bereft of her husband, Theodore, a rigger, who died on December 9 after a seven days' illness from typhoid and pneumonia, and who, she says, was insured for $2,000.

Associate of $5,000 Policy.

The police have been told that this policy, a workmen's fraternal one, was the associate of a $5,000 one issued by one of the big companies.

Recently the Tennyson home was stricken again, when the daughter, Miss Mabel, a talented girl of twenty-three, died, so the mother states, of a nervous malady. The policy in this case, according to the police, was $500, but all Mrs. Tennyson received net was $385.

Outdoor Attractions.

Paragon Park

There are plenty of thrills at Paragon Park, Nantasket Beach, this week and they are all free. Sadie Knowlton rides down a four-foot plank and dives into three feet of water; La Belle Blanche slides down a wire from the top of the electric tower and strikes a net at the bottom while going at a speed of about 60 miles an hour; and Will Hill does more things upon the high wire than any living performer. In the Bostock animal arena the favorites seem to be Juanita Davila, the "Leopard Queen;" Sig. Renaldo and his den of wild lions and Mlle. Marcella with her lions, pumas, hyenas and dogs. The boxing kangaroo is creating a good deal of merriment.

Norumbega Park

Patrons of Norumbega Park welcome the change from vaudeville to musical comedy in the covered open air theatre this week. Matt Ott's distinctly ingenious and unusual farce-comedy with musical trimmings, entitled "What Wright Left," is full of amusing happenings, ridiculous situations, absurd dialogues, with catchy music and well executed dancing numbers.

There is one innovation in particular at Norumbega Park this season which patrons are welcoming with unusual enthusiasm. That is the excellent service of launches which make trips up and down the river.

Bass Point and Nahant

Bass Point is the mecca of thousands of pleasure seekers these sweltering days. Steamers of the Nahant Line sail at frequent intervals from Lincoln Wharf, at the foot of Battery street.

Pilgrims at Provincetown

It is only of recent years that the general public has awakened to the historic fact that the landfall of the Pilgrims in this country was at Cape Cod, where they remained for several weeks until their permanent settlement was made at Plymouth. Provincetown is reached from Boston by steamer "Cape Cod," which leaves Bay Line Wharf No. 400 Atlantic avenue, daily at 9 o'clock and returns at 6:30 o'clock.

Flocking to Nova Scotia

The immense apple orchards, some of the largest in the world, in the Annapolis Valley in Nova Scotia, are now worth visiting.

Steamers Prince George and Boston of the Dominion Atlantic Railway line carry hundreds of tourists there. This is the ideal month to visit Yarmouth. The company's city office is No. 228 Washington street, or at Long Wharf.

ALL THEATRES OPEN DOORS BY LABOR DAY

New Plays Will Be Revealed at Most of Them for Long Runs.

MANY FAVORITES RETURN

The work of reconstructing and arranging the Orpheum is so far completed that Manager Williams announces its opening on Labor Day, Sept. 3. Matinee and evening performances will be given daily at 2 and 8 o'clock, all seats being reserved at every performance. An advance subscription box seat sale for the Monday matinee and evening performances is now on.

Americanism is the keynote of "The Virginian," the opening attraction of the Hollis Street Theatre on Labor Day. It is Owen Wister's dramatization of his own novel, which is one of the strongest works of recent years.

Judging by the line of applicants at the Boston Theatre box office yesterday, when seats were placed on sale for "Cape Cod Folks," the new rural nautical play will enjoy an exceptionally prosperous stay. It will have its first presentment on any stage at the Boston Theatre next Monday evening.

The Tremont Theatre is in readiness for the return next Monday night of "The Prince of Pilsen" and the tuneful familiars of that most virile of musical comedies will be sung by a company that is said to be superior in vocal equipment to any "Pilsen" organization since the first production of the play.

Great activity is going on so as to have everything in readiness for the opening of the Colonial Theatre on Labor Day. The attraction is Wright Lorimer in "The Shepherd King," already a household word from the successes in other years.

A week from Monday the Park Theatre will reopen for its regular dramatic season and Bostonians will have another chance to see "The Lion and the Mouse" which made so pronounced an impression here on the occasion of its original presentation.

"Julie Bon Bon," with Clara Lipman and Louis Mann, is the opening bill at the Majestic Theatre on Saturday, September 1.

The Columbia Theatre opens on Monday, Aug. 27, with the "Miss New York, Jr." burlesquers.

"MAN FROM NOW" GIVES SOUVENIRS

This is the thirteenth and final week of the run of "The Man from Now" at the Tremont Theatre. The house was crowded to overflowing last evening, on the occasion of the 100th performance, and the ladies in the audience were the recipients of silver souvenirs of the event. Good as were the piece and company at the start, the "new edition" and the changes made in the cast last week proved improvements. A newcomer to the cast last night was Edward Martindell, who enacted the role of Professor Forecasta.

PALACE THEATRE SEASON CLOSES

For the closing week of the Summer season the stock company at the Palace Theatre is presented this week in its brightest and most entertaining bill in two laughable burlesques entitled "The Whole Dam Family" and "Mistaken Identity." Both sketches are uproariously funny. The olio presents Adolph Adams, "The Man of Many Faces," Emma Kraus and Lillian Beach and their Pickininies, Stick and Lou Dan, comedy acrobatic bicyclists; Al. H. Burton, singing and dancing comedian, and Annie Carter, contralto.

WHO WILL PLAY AT THE CASTLE SQUARE

Among the members of the Castle Square Stock Company during the coming season will be Howell Hansel, Miss Thais Lawton, John Waldron, Ben Johnson, Shelley Hull, Louis Albion, Edward Wade, Mark Kent, Frederick Murray, John Geary, Leonora Bradley, Frances Brandt and Elfrida Lasche. The opening attraction will be "Mistress Nell" on Saturday evening, September 1.

'HER MARRIAGE VOW' A LURID DRAMA

"Her Marriage Vow" won instant favor at the Bowdoin Square yesterday. It is a drama with a good story, dealing with the adventures of a beautiful girl who married an unworthy man. She escapes the villain's vengeance in a train wreck that is vividly depicted, and also in an asylum from which she is heroically rescued. A strong vein of comedy runs through the story and the pathetic passages are cleverly interwoven. Gertrude Binley is the heroine and Alice Thornton the Maggie Claire. Chas. Miller is Ned Benton, the hero, and the heavy part falls to Henry Alexander.

AUSTIN & STONE'S HAS NEW FEATURES

"On the Boulevard" at Austin & Stone's Museum yesterday was a decided winner. The variety was pleasing, ranging from a big circus to the making of portraits in clay. The famous trunk mystery by Bellyea and Effie Loraine; Dugan, the clay modeller; wonder working by a troupe of Hindoos; Maude and Jessie Franks, in exhibitions of physical culture, and Kendall, the submarine diver, in water tricks, complete the list. In the theatre were the "Minstrel Maids," Jim Hennessey, the Tally-ho duo, Farrell and Le Roy, and electric vaudeville.

HOWARD THEATRE OPENS WITH A RUSH

With a rush of applause, big headline bills and plenty of variety, and with the entire house as spick and span as paint and new furnishings can make it, the Old Howard opened its Fall season yesterday to a packed house.

Tyce and Jermon are a pair of the high cards. Brockman, Mack and Company are another and William A. Inman and Company in a sketch act was a life giver; Charles and Fanny Van in a comedy skit; Johnny Johns, with new nonsense; The Three Deltons, in a gymnastic turn; McCrea and Poole, sharpshooting; The Arlington Four; Cramer and Hawkins; the great Bernadons on the slack wire; Williams and Pullman; Nessen, Hunter and Nessen, juggling act; the Videttes; Will and May Reno; Nichols the mimic and the Howardscope round out the performance.

LYCEUM THEATRE OPENS FOR SEASON

The fifteenth season of this burlesque theatre was inaugurated last evening by the Dainty Paree Burlesquers. A large audience was present. Clarence Wilbur, star in "The Devil's Daughter Company" last season, was the principal comedian. The two burlesques, "Patsy Bolivar's Vacation" and a "Day at the Circus," contain many funny situations. Frankie Bailey is the chief burlesquer. She is all there with voice and figure. Harry LeMar, Crawford and Mannin, Rice and Walters, and Amy Butler are also important factors in the production.

The show is strong in every detail, especially in the costuming and chorus.

Here's what we offer: Fine quality Surah Silk Scarfs in plain colors, including black, white, navy, royal, light blue, pink, cardinal or garnet—the same Windsors are being sold in other stores at 25c, and you'll have to pay that price here, too, when this lot is gone. For Wednesday only, each 19c

WANTED--GOOD ARBITRATOR--SEE THE MAYOR

Fitzgerald Seeks Expert to Adjust Electric Light Controversy with the City.

SOME NAMES SUGGESTED

Wanted—An arbitrator by and for the city of Boston in the present difference concerning the price of electric lighting.

In this, the "silly season" of our discontent, the live topic at City Hall is, "Who can the Mayor get to act as arbitrator in the lighting question?"

In the first place, so the experts agree, an arbitrator should be selected who knows the lighting problem inside and out, backwards and forwards. The arbitrator must be able to do more than distinguish an electric light from a slow match. He must be able to quote figures, give estimates and rattle on at length about "watt hours," "amperes," "alternating currents," "voltages," and such.

Political Expert, Too.

But the arbitrator also must be familiar with the ins and outs of the political end of the game. He must be on to the [illegible] of the "Light lobby." And that limits the field a bit. Solomon admitted that the way of a bird in the air, of a fish in the sea, of a serpent upon a rock and of a maid with a man were puzzlers. But Solomon hadn't stacked up against a latter-day political financial lobby, or he might have included that also.

Some have suggested that President C. L. Edgar of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company might be familiar with the situation, both in its illuminating and its political aspects. It is argued that the Edison Company would not cavil at Mr. Edgar's appointment to look out for the integrity of the city.

Others favor J. Otis (Jake) Wardwell, the clerk of the E. E. I. Company, and known as the "King of the Lobbyists." There is no question that Mr. Wardwell has a practical and comprehensive grasp upon the "innards" of the situation.

Move for Mr. Burdett.

Then there is a strong movement in favor of Everett W. Burdett, counsel for the Electric Light Trust. Mr. Burdett has been prominently identified with the lighting tangle in Darkest Boston for some time. On the other hand, opponents of Mr. Burdett have dared to cite such a moss-grown authority as Webster's Dictionary against such selection.

Webster defines an arbitrator thus:

"A person chosen by parties who have a controversy to determine their difference."

Well, Mr. Burdett says "The last arbitration was so recent and so satisfactory to both sides that I can very well believe that the Mayor sees no requirement for arbitration at this time."

In other words, Mr. Burdett shrewdly likens the alleged "controversy" to snakes in Ireland, "there ain't none." If there isn't anything to arbitrate, why get an arbitrator? What's the use? Does it pay? As a man who firmly believes in working along the line of least resistance, Mr. Burdett can't see the wisdom of forcing arbitration where there is no call for it.

But it is believed that if Mayor Fitzgerald should firmly demand arbitration or give me death, and so on, then Mr. Burdett might be prevailed upon to handle the job. And that he could do it neatly there is no argument.

Babson Also Mentioned.

Still another arbitration possibility is found in Corporation Counsel Thomas M. Babson. Mr. Babson is familiar with city affairs. By the same token, it is averred that he is uncommonly well posted on the other side of the question as well. It is said that not even "My Brother Snow," of counsel for the Lighting Trust, has more acute perception of what the grasping Lighting Trust is aiming to achieve. His official position as Corporation Counsel for the city would put Mr. Babson at a peculiar advantage in arbitrating.

These are merely a few suggestions. It is the consensus of opinion among those who really know there is no dearth of arbitration material in Boston, and that the Mayor need not go afield in his quest of a man to illuminate this lighting problem.

MRS. CARTER HIT OFFICER

PATCHOGUE, N. Y., Aug. 21.—The constable in the village of Brookshaven, who received the pummelling from Mrs. Leslie Carter Payne, the celebrated actress and wife of William L. Payne, is to-day the object of considerable merriment among his acquaintances.

The story is that Bumstead, the constable, attempted to board the automobile in which Mrs. Payne, her husband and the chauffeur were riding, claiming that they were exceeding the speed limit. Before he explained the object of his sudden visit he was mistaken for a highwayman and treated accordingly with a great deal of vigor by Mrs. Payne and the chauffeur.

Profuse apologies by Mrs. Payne were accepted by the gallant officer and no arrest was made.

FREE DOCTOR OF LARCENY CHARGE

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Dr. Whitman V. White, the aged physician arrested in Pittsfield, Mass., for the alleged larceny of $1,483, was discharged from custody yesterday in police court. James O'Sullivan, once a ward of the doctor's, appeared in court and made affidavit that he did not believe his former guardian had criminal intent.

FALLS 3 STORIES; LINES SAVE BABE

After falling three stories to the ground at her home, No. 37 Dennis street, Roxbury, yesterday, little Evelyn McViney, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McViney, is resting comfortably today, hardly the worse for her experience. Striking two clotheslines on the way down is the only thing that saved her from probably instant death.

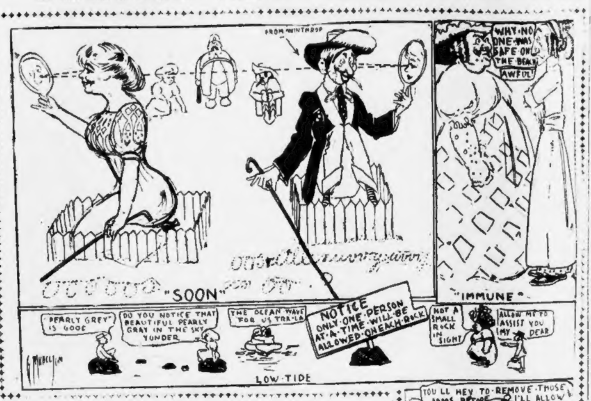
14 WORKMEN GAS VICTIMS; 3 DIE

PITTSBURG, Aug. 21.—Fourteen men were overcome by gas at the Jones & Laughlin Eliza furnace, Soho, to-day. Three men died at the Emergency Hospital. The names of the dead as reported at the coroner's office are George Marshall, Andrew Meisler and Michael Boise.

COTTON MILLS START UP.

AUGUSTA, Me., Aug. 21.—The Edwards Manufacturing Company's cotton mills, which have been closed on account of a strike, resumed operations yesterday, the trouble having been adjusted.

BEACH SPOONERS DEEP IN WOE BECAUSE MISS VINING FROWNS



FROM WINTHROP
WHY NO ONE WAS SAFE ON THE BEACH AWFUL!
"SOON"
"IMMUNE"
"PEARLY GREY" IS GOOD
DO YOU NOTICE THAT BEAUTIFUL PEARLY GRAY IN THE SKY YUNDER
THE OCEAN WAVE FOR US TRA-LA
NOTICE ONLY ONE PERSON AT-A-TIME WILL BE ALLOWED ON EACH ROCK
NOT A SMALL ROCK IN SIGHT
ALLOW ME TO ASSIST YOU MY DEAR
LOW TIDE

VISIONS THAT SCARE BEACH SPOONERS.

She Says Way Girls of the Present Day Carry on Is Enough to Make Angels Weep.

THERE'S an awful howl of protest
from Nantasket by the shore,
And Miss Floretta Vining ain't beloved any more;
For the sentimental couples who sit
spooning on the beach,
Declare Floretta's rubbing all the bloom
from off the peach
In her tactless declaration that along the briny deep
There are sights that are "sufficiency" to make an angel weep.
All the devotees of Cupid say: "Floretta,
keep away.
We'll use the beach at evening, you can use it in the day.
But if we spoon it's our affair, it isn't
up to you.
You may not care for spooning, but there's plenty more as do."

(Song of the Spooners.)

THERE'S a wrathful howl along the sentimental South Shore from Nantasket Beach up to Hull and at all the way stations since Miss Floretta Vining declared herself against the evening spooning of the seashore couples.

It seems that Miss Vining went out for an evening stroll along the beach and she not only saw a couple, but she saw the couple first. Presumably Leander didn't have time to remove his arm from Lulu's slender waist. Or, peradventure, Leander was stealing a surreptitious kiss from Lulu's lips.

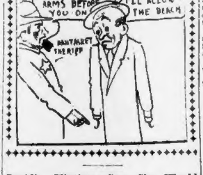
Looked and Fled.

At any rate Miss Vining fled hastily to a farther spot and encountered another sentimental couple. This was no improvement. The youth and maiden were not sitting seven feet apart, calmly discussing the precession of the equinoxes.

Instead, they were sitting comfortably close together. Their exact conversation is not recorded, but, without doubt, it consisted mainly of "Ootsy-tootsy" and "uvvey dovey."

Then Miss Vining heroically pursued her vigilant way until further along the beach. As a result of her observations she published in her South Shore newspaper a denunciation of these beach conditions, alleging that she was filled with horror and that the way the women of the present day deport themselves with men is enough to make angels weep.

So now it's war to the last arrow between Miss Vining and Dan Cupid. On Cupid's side are the host of couples who think the beach is "just lovely." They declare that Miss Vining would like a set of rules enforced along the beach something like this:



YOU LL HEV TO REMOVE THOSE ARMS BEFORE I'LL ALLOW YOU ON THE BEACH
NANTASKET SHERIFF

Cupid's Victims Say She Would Like to Put Up Rules to Kill All Joy in Life.

"Every couple must be under police guard."

"No spooning allowed. Even ice cream must be eaten with a fork."

"The waves are forbidden to kiss the shining sands."

"Yachts are forbidden to hug the shore."

"Lemon squeezers are tabooed."

"Card playing is discountenanced. It leads to holding hands."

"Engaged couples must get a permit to stroll the beach after dark."

"No girl may sit in the lap of luxury."

"Girls are warned against the arms of the sea."

AMERICA TAKES UP APPEAL OF ANNA SMIRNOFF

Women's Clubs Talk Vigorous Protest Against Cruelty of Russian Troops.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The appeal to American women by Anna Smirnoff, the Russian girl flogged by soldiers in St. Petersburg, has been taken up in various parts of the country. Her cry for help has been received in the following message:

"American women in a free land, I pray your help for our land in which we are without the right to protest against coarse violence to defenseless women."

In Cleveland the brutality of Russian officers toward Miss Smirnoff will be discussed by the Council of Women at its next meeting. Resolutions deploring the outrage, condemning the Russian Government and expressing sympathy for the girl victim will be adopted.

Dr. Sarah M. Siewers, one of the leading women physicians of Cincinnati, and president of the Susan B. Anthony Club, says:

"Russia has been guilty of so many atrocious things that this terrible deed, which would be considered as an incredible happening in any other land under the sun, causes no general surprise, perhaps. I have no doubt that the Susan B. Anthony Club at its next meeting—which will not be held until September, however—will formally adopt and forward to the Russian government an emphatic protest against this latest outrage against womanhood in that country."

In Milwaukee the women are aroused and will offer vigorous protest against flogging women, which is termed "a blot on 20th century civilization."

Similar action is being urged by the women of Indianapolis.

LABOR NEWS

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL BOSTON MASS 96

It was reported at last night's meeting of Sheet Metal Workers' Union No. 17, that forty-five men on strike for $3.60 a day in this city were working in New York at increased wages. President John J. Hynes is in New York negotiating to have a large metal ceiling and ventilating firm establish an office and shop in Boston. 290 men are working under the new agreement which provides for $3.00 a day, and twenty-two men are on the strike pay roll, it was stated.

The union voted to participate in the Labor Day parade. There will be 315 men in line. President John J. Hynes will be chief marshal.

STATIONARY ENGINEERS.

Thousands of circulars have been sent out by Boston Stationary Engineers' Union No. 16, inviting engineers to attend the mass meeting to be held at Faneuil Hall, September 12. Among the labor leaders to address the meeting are President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, John Mitchell of the United Mine Workers and Matt Comerford, international president of the Stationary Engineers.

The members of the executive board were apparently incensed at the action of Mayor Fitzgerald in his treatment of their petition for the establishment in the city of Boston of the eight-hour work day. It was stated that six weeks ago Mayor Fitzgerald had promised to settle the matter, but up to date he had failed to do so. It was decided to communicate with him again, urging speedy and satisfactory action.

CARPENTERS TO PARADE.

At the meeting of Carpenters' Union No. 33, last night, it was decided to invite every carpenter in Boston and vicinity to parade with it on Labor Day. It is expected that 1,000 men will march. After the parade refreshments will be served at Wells Memorial building to all who take part in the parade.

John E. Potts was chosen delegate to the international convention to be held December 10 at Niagara Falls. An attempt will be made to have the 1908 convention held in this city.

WAGE EARNERS' CLUBS.

The central executive board of the Wage Earners' Club will meet to-morrow night in Wells Memorial building to draft a form of pledge to be presented to the candidates for elective office in this vicinity and arrange for rallies and mass meetings.

The Ward 17 Club will meet to-night at No. 5 Hampden street.

To-morrow night the Ward 15 Club will meet in Carew hall, Broadway, South Boston, and the Ward 23 Club in Masonic hall, South street, Roslindale.

The Ward 1 Club meets Friday night in Union hall, Decatur and Liverpool streets, East Boston.

LABOR NOTES.

Painters' Union No. 11 will act on the matter of affiliating with the building trades section of the Central Labor Union at to-night's meeting.

Sixty applications for membership will be acted upon at the meeting of the Boston Railroad Clerks' Union at next Tuesday night's meeting at Wells Memorial building.

The first annual convention of the new Boilermakers and Shipbuilders' Union will be held in this city next April.

Fred P. McGrath has resigned as business agent of the Cement and Asphalt Workers' Union, owing to other duties, and Michael Sullivan has been elected in his stead.

EXPERT WILL AID FISHERMEN

GLOUCESTER, Aug. 21.—In a letter to the local Board of Trade, Congressman Gardner states that the State Department will dispatch Alvin B. Alexander, a fishery expert in the United States Fish Commission, in the government ocean-going towboat Potomac, to the Newfoundland treaty coast this Winter to look after the interests of the United States fishermen.

It further states that the fact that the State Department is ready to support the fishermen must not be considered by our captains as a license to commit acts in violation of the laws.

HONOR CHIEF EAGLE.

Waltham Aerie, F. O. E., gave a public reception last evening to President Martin F. Carney, who returned from Milwaukee, where he was elected State president of the order at the recent convention held in that city.

KILL YANKEES IN DOMINGO

ST. THOMAS, Aug. 21.—Reports received here from San Domingo say that Messrs. Milbourn and Thurston, American citizens employed as collectors in the Dominican customs house, have been killed in Tierra Nueva. They are said to have been killed in an attack by burglars, whom they tried to resist.

ENGINE HIT BRAKEMAN.

An engine struck Frank Highcock, aged 41, of No. 31 Franklin street, a brakeman on the Boston & Albany Railroad, early to-day, inflicting a severe scalp wound. He was taken in the caboose to the Kneeland street yard and from there to the Massachusetts General Hospital.

BUILDS $50,000 TOMB.

BENNINGTON, Vt., Aug. 21.—Ex-Governor J. G. McCullough's $50,000 granite mausoleum, to be erected here, is nearly completed.

ENTERPRISE ON MOVE.

The Massachusetts nautical training ship Enterprise left Algiers on Saturday, the 18th, for Madeira via Gibraltar.

It should be a fast battle between the Tigers and the Pilgrims this afternoon. It will be the third meeting between the two teams in the present series, each side having won a game.

Manager Jimmy Collins says that either Bill Dinneen, who hasn't pitched for some time because of a lame shoulder, or Cy Young, who twirled last Friday's close contest against the White Sox, will be the card on the firing line. The chances, however, are in favor of Young, as Dinneen's injured member is not quite well.

Lou Criger's finger may be healed enough to enable him to play this afternoon. He has been out of the line-up because of a split finger, which he got in the final battle against the Windy City team.

It's hard telling who Manager Bill Armour will trot out. Eubank has not worked for some time, and he may be the man selected to face the Boston crowd.

The first two games between the Bostons and Detroits were slugging affairs, but dope artists say that it is a safe bet that this afternoon's struggle will be a pitchers' battle, with the Boston twirler having a slight advantage, because of playing on the home grounds.

Yesterday's game was won rather handily by the Tigers, 6 to 4, although the Bostons batted every bit as hard as their rivals, but not as timely.

The Tigers hit on Glaze, the Dartmouth pitcher's, delivery in the opening inning, and garnered four runs. After that the collegian improved and held them fairly safe for the rest of the game.

Boston made several threats to score, but was unable to do so until the seventh and eighth innings, when two runs were made in each period.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

The series between the Bostons and the Detroits now stands even.

Ban Johnson saw yesterday's game. He closely watched the play of the locals.

That was a happy thought of Jimmy Collins's to put Freeman up to bat for Glaze in the eighth. With three on base, Buck singled, scoring two runs.

Carrigan, the Holy Cross man, certainly looks like a good catcher. He can swat the ball, and throws to the bases like a veteran.

The only bases on balls by Mullin were given in the eighth, when he passed three men.

Crawford was quite a factor in the victory of the visitors. He got two passes, a single and a triple, and struck out once.

Parent played a star game at short. He made some difficult assists, and also some nice running catches.

The Bostons biffed the ball hard, making eleven hits, but their batting was not as opportune as that of the Tigers.

Ralph Glaze's first inning was his worst. In that inning the Tigers got four hits, a base on balls, and four runs.

Hoey and Glaze were the only Boston men not to hit safely.

GAMES TO-DAY.

Brooklyn at Pittsburg.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 21.—There is only one game scheduled in the National League to-day, and Tenney's seven hustlers don't fit in it. To-morrow they open up in St. Louis, if it is possible to scrape up a couple of utility players.

Five hundred paid admissions to say goodbye to the league footers. It was the smallest attendance that has been on hand this year. Diehl, the amateur, was again on hand, and put up an effective game.

Tenney scored when Deal muffed Schlei's assist on Howard's tap. Brown grounded, Huggins to Deal. The Reds made all of their tallies in a cluster in the third.

Feature at the Readville Track Will Be

FUTURITY RACE TODAY

By Edward E. Cogswell.

It is hardly the question whether racing is the better with betting or without, but the directors of the New England Breeders' Association thoroughly believe that the present law permits of speculation inside the inclosure of their grounds at Readville race track, and fully intend to fight it out on those lines.

On the other hand the State police are determined they will not be outdone in fighting the struggle to maintain the law is complete in prohibiting any betting on horse racing.

With all of the interests depending on the result of the test case in court the decision of the Dedham judge this forenoon has been awaited with anxiety by both parties, likely the horsemen more than the State police, as to the former it means the present meeting will be a howling success, while the State police are simply working on the principle of the matter.

If it should turn out that betting on horse racing is legal the credit of the discovery certainly belongs to Attorney McAnarney of Quincy. He is a great admirer of the sport, and in going over the statutes he immediately perceived that the bill passed by the Legislature in 1900 was all that was wanted for the race tracks in Massachusetts to open their gates with freedom again.

Opinions of Legal Lights.

He called the attention of the directors of the Breeders' Association to the fact, but before they would go ahead it was thought better to get the opinion of the best legal lights in the State.

Ex-Attorney-General Herbert Parker was then called into the discussion. After thoroughly sifting the law over, he informed the directors that so far as he could see it would be perfectly legal to go ahead and sell auction pools and make books on the result of the races. Hence the start yesterday and the test case in court.

Around town last evening the general verdict among horsemen was that there we - be betting at Readville this afternoon. The basis of the argument was placed on the opinion rendered by Mr. Parker, as it is thought he is too clever an attorney to get the Breeders' Association in a box.

Little fault can be found with the State police in fighting the proposition. Two different Governors have in a way called Chief Shaw to account for allowing pool selling in the State, and he is now firmly convinced he will take every measure that whatever may be the law it must be obeyed to the letter. Not again will the ones over his head have the opportunity of telling him that he must attend to his duty in the relation of the race tracks.

From every point the races for this afternoon must result in exciting contests. Naturally the Norfolk for 2:08 class pacers looks from the road like Ed. Geers ought to win with the so far, invincible Ardelle. She has headed the summary from the start of the Grand Circuit. It seemed, to, as though she won without being all out.

However, there is Argot Boy, besides a lot more in the race, for the purpose of making all of the bother possible for the favorite. Knowing this it may come true that the record for the Norfolk will be lowered from 2:04¾, made by Morning Star a couple of seasons since.

With pool selling El Milagro will be surely even money against the ones who draw positions to start. He is counted a much better trotter now than since he has been on the turf. If he does what is expected there will be another 2:10 trotter in the list for McKinney.

Three Year Old Trots.

The three-year-old trot has excited attention all over the country. Not only breeders of the light harness horses are interested, but the ones who are delighted in seeing a good horse race.

Considering that Gay Bingen won at Cleveland and Buffalo, securing a record of 2:12¼, he has the right to be the logical favorite. Opposed to him, though, is the local stallion, Cochato, which last week at Poughkeepsie turned the course in 2:12½, and those who saw the trial think he can trot in 2:10.

By no means is the measure of Ed Custer known. It is barely possible that the two first named may go at each other so stoutly in the first heat that the son of Baronmore can come along and pull off the trick in time around 2:12. Anyway, Chandler, his driver, is strongly of the idea that a couple of heats right in that notch will carry off the rich plum offered by the American Horse Breeder.

It is not by any means too certain that the three mentioned will have it out between themselves, as from Cleveland has come the word to look out for a daughter of Moko, called Solferino, in Vance Nuckol's stable. She has circled that track in 2:15 so handily that some are free to say she was merely walking. If she can walk in 2:15, what in the world can she be capable of when Vance puts the question to her?

ON THE QUARTERSTRETCH.

When the tip was given that pools were to be sold on the races the way horsemen rushed for the room under the grandstand proved they relished the opportunity.

On all sides were heard kind words regarding the system of three to an event and each heat a race. Dividing the purse money 70, 20 and 10 per cent. on each race made the drivers get a hustle on from the word till they got back to the wire again.

And it is red-hot racing that is sure to make the sport so popular the public will swarm to the track. A person said one thing needed was to give the public that cannot afford the money a chance to get in the track for fifty cents. Let them have the innerfield to watch the racing.

Lon McDonald was hot after Captain Bacon before the Blue Hill was decided. The unmarked stallion annexed the opening heat to his credit in a way to make him a lot of friends, but his showing in the final heat was so poor as to take off what glory he had gained. It is now doubtful if he goes into the McDonald stable. It doesn't pay sometimes to show up all that is in a trotter.

It was poor railroad service the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. offered the patrons in getting back to the city after the races. There was only one special train and that had only five cars. "Pack them in somehow," is surely the motto of the road, but it is harmful to the Readville track people.

Jack Curry looked as hale and hearty as though he was not going on to the sixty notch of life. Of course, none know just how old the veteran of the sulky is, as he is chary of his age as a maiden lady. It is a safe bet, however, that barring accidents, the turf will see Jack for many moons yet to come.

Brilliant Girl is now paying for the oats it has cost to keep her in the past three seasons. Always a fast trotter, yet she was kept over after driving Anaconda out to his trotting record of 2:09¾, and to make good she kept herself over the next season by not coming up to expectations. With her now, though, it is one case of where it paid to work the holding over process.

Dave Cahill trotted his mare Sister Colette quite a race before starting her in the Blue Hill. Several timed her in 2:10, and had he saved a part of that speed till it was needed it is possible she might have finished nearer than sixth position from the winners.

Jimmy Gatcomb sprung a surprise on the boys in the way his mare Phalla paced in the 2:10 class. When she finished second in the opening heat it was figured a mistake, but in the third heat she came back in the same place, and swept through the home stretch extremely fast.

And there was another in the same race that demands attention. It is the stallion Stiletto, owned by H. Chenery of Boston, and trained and driven by Bert Fowler. If he holds his form for a couple of races he is certainly headed for the 2:05 list.

Jack Coldree was no lemon when he paid $2,500 for the pacer My Star, as some talked. When he was winning two races a week in New York State the clip was clearly within his limit. He made a record of 2:05¾ so easily that now the wise ones are claiming he is a sure 2:05 pacer. The many friends of Jack are greatly pleased to see him having so much success in the racing of his horses. When a loser he was of the sort that do not make a "beef."

Alntree called enough at the finish of the second heat in the pacing race. "Long Shot" Cox wore a worried look at the very end when he saw Billy Walters, Jr., coming to him so fast. It must have seemed he was standing still. He barely nailed the second place.

Blue Hill was considered the cinch in the futurity, but the stopping of pool-selling surely saved the boys, as in the few pools sold he ruled choice at 50 to 20 over the field. He broke in the first heat, and in the second plainly showed he was far from a bruising race. But he is a good colt, even though defeated.

Ike Weir has been selected to act as starting judge at Magnolia next Saturday, where a horse show and running races are to be held by the society people. Ike received the entire vote of the racing committee when the subject of getting a starter was brought up.

Horsemen will be sorry to learn that Grattan Boy, Jr., is in a bad way from injury received a few days since. He was entered to start in the Massachusetts Stake Thursday, but it is almost certain he will not be in condition to face the flag this year. He is a very fast but unlucky trotter for Tobias Burke, the Providence horseman.

MURRAY-SULLY BOUT OFF.

GLOUCESTER, Aug. 21.—The scheduled bout between Jimmy Murray of Cincinnati and John A. Sullivan of Magnolia was not fought last night owing to a small house. The extreme heat was responsible for the slim attendance.

BAN JOHNSON HERE TO DRAFT 1907 PLAYERS

Ban Johnson, president of the American League, is in town and will remain here for two or three days. The real reason for his visit, Ban says, is to confer with the management of the Boston Americans regarding the drafting of new players for next season. All drafting has to be done by September 1, so General Taylor and he are going over the list of likely looking men in view of signing them up.

Johnson is very anxious to put as first class a team here as represented the Hub during the first four years of the American League. He realizes that this is the banner baseball city of the country, and a top-notch team here goes a great way toward the general success of the league.

"We've got to get a first-class team in this city; that's all there is to it," said Johnson. "There are a number of players we have in mind to bring to the Hub and when the first volley is fired in 1907, we hope to have just as fine a club in this city as has ever represented it."

Ban reports a fine baseball season all down the line. He expressed his pleasure at the American League's exemption from any such squabbles as have marked the playing of their big rivals.

In the efforts to strengthen the Boston nine, the management has already signed a pitcher, who will probably report before the season is over. He is Fred Oberlin of Milwaukee.

This far this season Oberlin has won 22 games and has lost 12. In 17 other games he relieved pitchers and finished the games. He is a right-hander, weighs 168 pounds, stands 6 feet 2 inches, and is 22 years old.

Joe Harris of Melrose and the Boston Americans, and who has been pitching so far this season, was signed by Manager McDermott of Fall River yesterday, and will play the rest of the season with the Fall River team.

DESHLER READY FOR BALDWIN

Down to weight and ready to battle for the best that is in them, Matty Baldwin, the fiery little Bunker Hill biffer, and Dave Deshler, the Cambridge knuckle pounder, are await the bell which sends them on their fifteen round journey at the Lincoln A. C. to-night. It should develop into one of the severest tests of boxing ability that has taken place in the local ring for some time.

Matty recently entered into a matrimonial venture and will go into the fray with more responsibility on his sturdy shoulders than at any time in his career. Those who have seen him disport himself in the roped arena before will see greater things coming from the direction of the Charlestown slugger, as he will slough in like a fiend to get the big end of the purse, as he needs it.

He has never been knocked out in his experience in the ring, and very few boxers can claim a knockdown on him. He is the toughest nut to crack of any boy of his weight and inches and will show the fans a few new wrinkles this evening. He is the favorite, as he generally is in every match he goes into, as he is popular, and will make his opponent go the limit.

Dave Deshler has every bit the same cleverness as Baldwin, and when he was travelling at his best there were few who had it on him. He raced too often and went stale. Now he is back in prime shape and claims to be moving better than ever he did.

Both boys went fifteen rounds to a draw which is a good proof that they are evenly matched and will go fast from the start to get a lead and break up the old decision rendered.

The winner will also be given a chance at the next show to meet Tommy Murphy, the Harlem flyer, and that is too good a thing to lose.

Both camps are full of confidence that they will swing the verdict their way, as the boys are so fit to do themselves full justice and the fact that they drew at their last meeting makes it equally uncertain in the pick.

The show to-night will start promptly at 8 p. m., with a six-round bout between Ike Bradley, the English bantam, and Fred O'Brien of Chelsea. In the second six-round bout Billy Clinton of Lowell will face Young Cuddy of Lawrence. Maffit Flaherty will judge all the bouts.

MISS SUTTON A WINNER.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 21.—Miss Mary Sutton, the former women's British tennis champion, made her first appearance at Newport yesterday, and played in a mixed doubles match, having as her partner William Spencer. They had no difficulty in defeating Miss Edna Parger and J. D. E. Jones, the latter the Rhode Island champion, 6—3, 6—2.

LAKE MAY JOIN LYNN.

LOWELL, Aug. 21.—Fred Lake, formerly owner and captain of the Lowell Baseball team of the New England League, has asked and obtained his release. Disagreement with Manager Winn is assigned as the cause. It is said Lake may join the Lynn team.

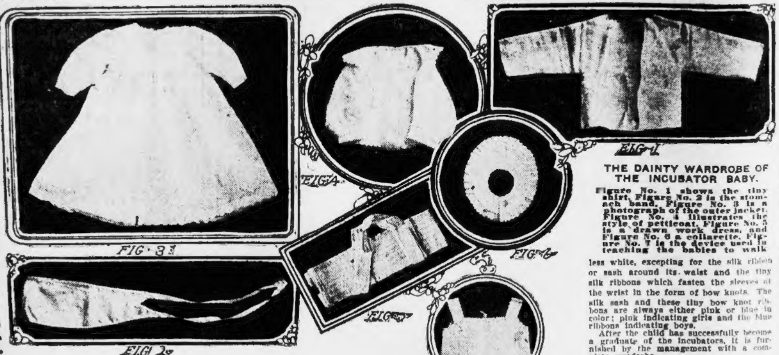
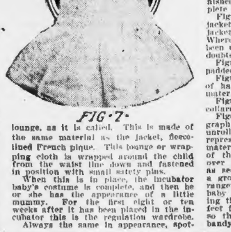
INCUBATOR BABY'S WARDROBE A MARVEL OF DAINTY BEAUTY





FIG·7·

THE DAINTY WARDROBE OF THE INCUBATOR BABY.

Daintiest of Garments Are Made for the Little Tots by Sisters in the Convents of France

FASCINATING to every mother is a peep at the dainty little wardrobe of an incubator baby. Women who imagine the tiny tots of humanity are merely wrapped in swaddling clothes are as far as possible from the truth.

The tiny living dolls are dressed and gowned in the very daintiest of baby clothing, all made by hand, largely by sisters in the French convents.

And the wardrobe of the little incubator baby is a marvel to women, in that it is altogether different from that of the ordinary every-day baby. Through the courtesy of Dr. C. C. Egan, manager of the Infant Incubator Institute at Wonderland, the wonderful wardrobe was photographed, and is here presented for the first time in any newspaper.

Figure No. 1 shows a very tiny shirt made of the finest and lightest weight linen. This shirt is put on baby next to its body. Over that again a similarly formed garment is placed. This is made of a fleece-lined material called French pique. It has small bands so that the jacket can be drawn together and tied in position. The only fancy work on it is the fine scalloped hem at the ends of the sleeves and around the neck band.

Figure No. 2 represents a stomach band. It is made of the finest white French flannel, and is passed around the body and tied in position. When Mr. or Miss Incubator Baby is dressed, he is laid flat on his back on the dressing table. The little linen shirt is first put on, next the diaper is placed in position, then comes the stomach band, then the little pique jacket is slipped over the shirt.

Afterward there is put on a garment which is a baglike arrangement, which fastens at the waist line, and is a sanitary garment that is used particularly for infants in France.

Then comes the wrapping cloth, or lounge, as it is called. This is made of the same material as the jacket, fleece-lined French pique. This lounge or wrapping cloth is wrapped around the child from the waist line down and fastened in position with small safety pins.

When this is in place, the incubator baby's costume is complete, and then he or she has the appearance of a little mummy. For the first eight or ten weeks after it has been placed in the incubator this is the regulation wardrobe.

Always the same in appearance, spotless white, excepting for the silk ribbon or sash around its waist and the tiny silk ribbons which fasten the sleeves at the wrist in the form of bow knots. The silk sash and these tiny bow knot ribbons are always either pink or blue in color; pink indicating girls and the blue ribbons indicating boys.

After the child has successfully become a graduate of the incubators, it is furnished by the management with a complete wardrobe.

Figure No. 3 represents a very pretty jacket made of fine pique material. This jacket in France is called a jackson. Where the name originated from I have been unable to find out; but it must undoubtedly be of English origin.

Figure No. 7, as shown in the photograph, is difficult to describe, but when unrolled and placed on the baby it would represent a very broad band of strong material passing around the waist line of the child, with two straps fastened over the shoulders, and the long straps, as seen in the photograph, are held by a grown-up person, while the entire arrangement is, as you may guess, to teach baby to walk; the grown-up person holding tightly on the straps relieves baby's feet from the entire weight of its body, so that baby will grow up and not be bandy-legged.

WHAT LITTLE GIRL WANTS TO OWN "HAPPY HOUSE"?

The Girl Who Wins It Must Know How to Take Care of It, So Write the Very Best Letter You Can

EVERY evening, directly after supper, the Happys have what they call the happiest hour of the day.

Mrs. Happy washes the dishes and the children put them away, and then they all gather on the front veranda.

The baby sits on her mother's lap and coos a soft accompaniment to the chatter, and everything is beautiful and peaceful.

As it grows dark and the baby's bedtime draws near, Mrs. Happy croons a drowsy little lullaby, and sometimes Dorothy almost drops asleep over it.

Mary always has a story to tell, and Mrs. Happy usually has some very interesting thing to talk about, so that bedtime comes all too soon.

But when you have played hard all day it is pretty nice to creep into a soft, white bed, isn't it? And, after all, the children are quite ready for "bye-low" land, as a rule.

After the babies are all tucked in bed Mr. and Mrs. Happy have a great deal to talk about.

They like to wonder what the children will be like when they are grown up, and to plan good lives for them.

Mrs. Happy, as she rocks and sews, dreams a great many tender, loving dreams about her babies.

The child who wins Mrs. Happy must make some pretty new clothes for her, for, though she sews all the time, she never has time to make things for herself. All her time is taken up in making pretty things for the children and mending.

Besides, that, you know, she is a very wonderful housekeeper, and that keeps her very busy.

There are a great many very good little housekeepers who would know exactly how to take care of Happy House.

Write and tell how you would keep a house of your own; who knows but you may be the fortunate winner of this lovely doll house, which will be sent to the child who writes the best letter.

Write to the Doll House Editor and tell her what you would do.

Address your letters to the Doll House Editor, care of the BOSTON AMERICAN, No. 80 Summer street, Boston.

How to Win —the— Doll's House

How would you keep house?

How would you treat your children?

The best answer to these questions wins this beautiful doll's house with all its furnishings.

Write on one side only of the paper.

Do not write more than one hundred words. Write neatly.

Give your name, age and address.

Letters From Girls Who Want to Win

The Nicest Letter Wins the House and Family

HUNDREDS of letters are being received from bright girls who would like to win "Happy House" and the "Happy" family. Here are some from to-day's mail. See if you can write a better letter than the best of these:

GETTING THE MEALS

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

When I got up in the morning I would light the fire and put the kettle on to boil and get a nice breakfast. After breakfast I would make my beds, wash the children and sweep up the rooms. When I got that done I would cook the dinner. Then I would wash the dinner dishes and clean up the kitchen. I would then get supper and go to bed.

JESSIE CAMERON, 10 years.
No. 11 Fifth avenue, Watertown.

TO DON'T FIGHT

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

I would keep my house neat as I could. I would treat my children kindly. I would not whip them, but tell them to be kind to one another and to don't fight one another. I would get up, make the fire and get things in good order for breakfast, and let them get up and play around until breakfast time.

HATTIE KIMBLE, 11 years.
No. 24 Upton street, Cambridge.

"TWO TIMES A WEEK."

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

I would sweep the rooms two times a week. I would get up, make the fire and boil the coffee and get breakfast, then I would clear away the breakfast dishes and sweep, and then I would go to market and buy the dinner. I would buy the very best vegetables and meats. I would take the baby and leave the elder children in care of Mary.

ETHEL JOHNSON, 12 years.
No. 9 Waverley street, Somerville.

KIND AND RESPECTFUL

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

I would wash on Monday, iron on Tuesday, cook on Wednesday. I would sew on Thursday and on Friday I would cook again, and in the afternoon I would dress my children clean, and take them out for a walk. Sunday I would dress them in their best clothes and take them to Sunday school. I would teach my children to be kind and good and respect everybody.

BERNICE N. SMITH, 9 years.
No. 131 Columbia street, Cambridge.

PLAY MUD PIES

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

I should rise early and try to get as much of my work done as soon as possible before the children got up, and then I would have more time to spare for them. I should have so much work laid out for each day. I would bring my children up not to be saucy and to have good manners. I would bring them up to go to church and Sunday school. I should keep my children clean but not in white all of the time. I should make bloomers for them, and let them play mud pies.

CHRISTINA DRURY, 10 years.
No. 58 Hanover street, Portsmouth, N. H.

NOT ASHAMED

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

When I have a home of my own I will keep it nice and clean. I shall always keep my house so I will not be ashamed to have my friends come in and see me. I would wash on Monday, iron on Tuesday, extra clean on Wednesday, sew on Thursday, bake on Friday and clean on Saturday. I will love my husband and children. I will keep my children clean and sweet. I will teach my children never to lie or steal. I will bathe my children Saturday night, so they will be all nice and clean for Sunday.

Runaway Marriages That End Miserably

THE fashion of slipping quietly away to be married increases in popularity apparently, for cases are of daily occurrence. The fashion has its advantages—and dangers; there are no wearying trousseau details, no wedding gifts to drain the purses of relations and friends, and no heavy expenses for parents to settle.

The great dangers of secret weddings are incurring family displeasures, arousing public criticism and making a mess of life by marrying the wrong person. All these points should be carefully considered.

It is a grave mistake to offend one's parents. Certainly they are entitled to a considerable degree of consideration because they are parents and have made innumerable sacrifices since assuming the responsibilities of fatherhood and motherhood. In the majority of cases difficulties can be avoided because the average parent has a child's interests and happiness continually in mind. Mistakes are sometimes made through excess of affection, and an occasional father or mother is bigoted or selfish.

Best Mothers Suffer

Unfortunately, these are not the men and women who have to suffer from the disobedience of young people.

The best mothers are often subjected to the severest suffering by misguided children. It must be hard to see the one in whom are centred one's dearest hopes throw away the future by an entanglement that cannot possibly bring happiness.

A young man of wealth is a certain target for adventurers of both sexes, and must have an unusually level head to resist temptations. I can quite see that an adventurer would not be a desirable addition to my family.

Generally parents can be trusted to do their very best for the future of youth. The best friend youth or maid can have is mother; the next best is father. Even the men of the family concede this.

The girl who is afraid to let her mother share her secrets has reason to be ashamed of them. A group of three girls, about sixteen years old, were talking. The point of the conference was a request from the prettiest of the trio to intercept the mail carrier on his route and get whatever mail he had for her.

"My mother has threatened to read my letters," she said, "but I do not believe she will. But if she should—well, there would be fireworks, that's all."

Girl Is in Danger

The girl is in danger because she dares not let her mother supervise her correspondence, and she is much too young to be allowed to judge for herself. Possibly she may escape any serious consequences, but there is always the chance against it. Life would be a deal easier if people could eliminate unnecessary sentiment and give every person the right to his or her own life, and allow them all to suffer the consequences without lacerating our own heart.

But since sentiment continues to clamor for recognition common sense has a hard time of it. However, common sense says, very plainly, that a close bond of sympathy between parents and children is the best of safeguards for both.

Devoted children rarely use opportunities to wound those who love them best, and parents of the right sort stand ready to make sacrifices in their turn.

No mother worth the name will forsake her babies even when she has ceased to love and respect their father. She could not consider happiness in other surroundings unless her children could share it. No daughter worthy a good man's love would add to the inevitable burden parents must carry.

Milk and Oil Are Fine Beauty Aids

EVER since the days of Nero and the exquisite Poppaea, women have been aware of the beautifying qualities of milk, but it is a cheap "cure" and therefore not fashionable. Professor Metchnikoff of Paris was convinced that a diet of milk, slightly sour, would successfully combat the attacks of old age, but his words never carried much weight; now the simple "cure" is again attracting general attention because of the extraordinary case of Mrs. Fay, who died the other day aged 105, and whose body at the time of her death was as well preserved as that of an ordinary woman at thirty. For over forty years Mrs. Fay had lived entirely on bread and milk.

It would be difficult to induce the fashionable women of to-day to live entirely on bread and milk, but it is not possible to express in words the good qualities—from the beauty point of view—that are embraced in the nourishing white fluid.

Poppaea's baths of milk must have been rather expensive—though not nearly so much so as many of the "lotions" and "washes" of to-day; but almost every woman could afford to bathe her face and neck in milk night and morning.

First of all, the face should be carefully cleaned with some pieces of wadding soaked in a mixture of olive oil and cognac, or olive oil and eau de cologne, and then when the skin has been dried the milk bath applied; let the milk dry on the face, and then rub over with thin slices of raw potato or cucumber.

Drink a large glass of hot water before going to bed and another the first thing in the morning. When possible eat at least one orange before breakfast and during the day drink many glasses of pure milk. A little meat, plenty of salad, and no wine, no tea, no cakes! A simple "beauty cure," and one worth remembering.

Olive oil helps in a wonderful way to preserve the soft outlines of chin and throat, and if pure—it is pure! People advocate "pure glycerine," but this sticky stuff is absolutely ruinous to the skin; on the other hand, olive oil is the balm of youth itself. It need hardly be said that any remedy must be used regularly and continued for a length of time if good results are to be looked for. Sometimes women find that even plain milk seems to burn the face just at first, but it must be continued and in a short time good effects will be perceived.

REGARDING THE HAIR

THE hair should not be brushed more on one side than the other. If the hair is to be of even thickness and beauty on both sides of the head, one side of the hair and of the scalp should be brushed as evenly as the other. The usual practice is to draw all of the hair over either the right or left shoulder, so that only one side of the scalp gets the stimulation that comes from the brushing.

Don't Be a Victim of the Worry Habit

WE are advised by wise people not to borrow trouble; that it is more expensive than borrowing money.

It is foolish to submit to evils that can be avoided, and neither is it a virtue, but a weakness, to endure them.

Whining about them or worrying about them does not help one to get rid of them.

Women grow old through fretting more than men. Home life to many women is a place where the thoughts revolve in an undisturbed routine wearisome to the last degree.

Men have their business, their rides to and from the city, to keep the social part of their natures from stagnation. Some of them say they do not understand why people want company at home. Their idea of a home is "a place to rest in, to get out of the way of the world, where they can put up their feet and think of nothing."

Not Work That Hurts

One poor woman said: "'Taint work that's wore me out; it's rather sitting with my hands before me and my heart worrying round and round in my inside, like a wild beast in a cage."

Troubles and hardships are often of our own making. It is wonderful if we make up our minds to put up with a thing how little there is to put up with.

Worrying in children can be, and often is, cultivated by parents and friends. Children should be early taught to reason and not allowed to fuss and worry for things they may not have.

The worry that money causes is perhaps only equalled by the worry caused by the lack of it. The poor try to make one dollar do the work of two or five, as the case may be.

The rich worry for fear they will lose their possessions. Sleep and appetite are lost, and the loss of health follows.

There are some people who admit that they worried about the wrong thing, or at least that they were very foolish to worry at all.

One who inherited a predisposition to worry over what had been done or said only prevented herself from being nervous and overwrought by observing the result in the parent from whom she inherited the tendency.

She just took the opposite course. Instead of deciding a point and then worrying over the decision, she decided, and would not allow herself to think of it. She went to walk, or to make a call, or took some work which kept her mind fully employed.

Worry is the cause of more trouble than any other one thing, not excepting alcohol. For it leads men to murder, suicide, embezzlement, insanity, drink, family estrangements, quarrels and business difficulties.

Warped Judgment

Worried people cannot make good bargains; their judgments become so warped or twisted, through dwelling too long on the same subject; with those subjects they are no clearer at the end of their thinking than they were at the beginning.

Worry induces such a condition of body that it readily receives the germs of disease.

We daily meet faces that show the results of worry; they are seamed and wrinkled and full of lines. They should be a warning to us. If the time and strength spent in worry could be used for self-improvement and benefiting those near us there would be many changes in every community.

"SHADOWS OF NEW YORK"

CHAPTER XCIII.

A Street in a Suburb

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner.

THERE is a long street in the northern district of New Rochelle composed mainly of the class of house described by the estate agent as "this attractive and desirable villa."

The residents of this street who live in the west portion are just a little inclined to give themselves airs over their neighbors in precisely similar houses in the same street, who live in the eastern portion, having some vague, deeply-rooted idea that it is more aristocratic.

Practically all the houses in the street have been built on the same pattern and this monotonous streetful of reproductions strikes the average stranger with a somewhat melancholy effect.

The houses are detached, have a strip of grass between the sidewalk and the front windows; three steps lead up to the front door, and a little gate at the side leads to the garden behind the house to the back door.

The name on the door of No. 303 was Bywater, and Mr. Bywater, with his tight-fitting frock coat and his long, carefully waxed gray moustache, and the little suggestion of swagger in his walk, was a well known figure in the street.

A vague general impression was current that Mr. Bywater was a very influential man in the city in financial circles, though no one, if taxed, could have given a precise reason for that belief.

But, after all, in suburban streets, who knows anything definite of the inner life or business of Smith next door, only divided from us by the thinnest of walls?

Certainly Mr. Augustus Bywater went down town every day.

A Puzzling Man

With that distinguished appearance and that air of rather patronizing geniality, how could he be anything else than influential?

And as to what particular circles into which his business took him, or even what his business was, it was a curious fact that Mrs. Bywater, a worried, faded woman, who had been pretty once, and had lost her prettiness in the sordid struggle of ways and means—rather a hard struggle at times, despite her husband's invariable flower in his button hole and the cigar he smoked on his way to the station—knew really as little as her neighbor, Mrs. Brown, with whom she would sometimes hold brief discussions over the garden fence on the marked degeneracy of modern servants or the dishonest proportion of bone that the local butchers weighed with the meat.

It was evidently for Mr. Bywater's house that a boy, with a basket on his arm containing a few groceries, was bound; for as he came up the street, whistling boy fashion, he referred more than once to a paper on which the address was written, with the number "303" very large and distinct.

He had never been to the house before, to judge by the way he scanned the numbers on the doors long before he reached his destination.

He turned in at the gate of No. 303 and went round to the back door.

A grimy servant whose face was so smudged that she might have been advertising a certain brand of blacklead answered his knock. She held out her hand mechanically for the groceries in the errand boy's basket. Presumably they were for some one else, for he said:

"This is Mrs. Bywater's, isn't it? I want to see 'er."

"Yes, what d'yer want to see her for? There ain't no orders to-day."

"That's all right. Ain't come about orders. I've got a message for 'er; can't give it to no one else."

The servant went out into the passage and shouted:

"Mrs. Bywater!"

A voice floated down from upstairs:

"Well, Amelia, what is it?"

"A boy who says he wants to see you, ma'am; that he's got a message."

"Very well. I'll be downstairs in a minute."

Presently Mrs. Bywater appeared.

A middle-aged woman, without a trace of the pretty coquettish girl who twenty years ago had had half a dozen admirers, all simultaneously eager for her favors, and who had treated most of them in a very high-handed manner, making them happy or miserable by turns, by her smiles or her coldness, conscious of her power and delighting in testing it, as pretty girls always have done and always will.

Only twenty years ago, and now—a sharp-featured, worried face, her complexion gone, and not a lingering trace of the bygone prettiness to tell of those former triumphs.

The Point of View

The tyranny of the necessity to keep up "appearances" on means that sometimes failed to put in an appearance had dulled the once bright, roguish eye, hollowed the rounded cheek, had killed the fascinating charm that had been so irresistible.

Mrs. Bywater was only forty now, and she ought to have been a pretty woman still; but hers was that common story, tragedy, if you will, for it is a tragedy when a woman not old in years looks in her glass and sees the crows'-feet coming and her charm fading and the gray stealing away the sheen of her hair years before in the natural order of things these signs should be making their unwelcome appearance—the story of the middle-class woman of the suburbs with the slender income, the two ends of which so obstinately refuse to do more than meet, and not always that, that her youth and freshness are worn out in the struggle.

That gay, funny dog, the humorous writer, has made us scream with laughter a hundred times with his facetious account of the shifts of genteel poverty in the middle-class suburb; what reams of fun he has got out of the subject, and how our sides have ached as we read!

It is possible that a woman like Mrs. Bywater might read some such masterpiece of humor without a glimmer of a smile.

When one has lived a thing, the point of view is apt to be so different from that of one who has been merely a looker on.

"Well," said Mrs. Bywater sharply to the boy—not that she meant her tones to be sharp, for she was the kindest of women, only she had got into the way unconsciously through years of wear and tear on her nerves. Besides, just now she was very busy upstairs housecleaning a bedroom, and she resented the interruption.

"You are Mrs. Bywater?" said the boy.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

By Beatrice Fairfax

UNREASONABLE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young girl of eighteen years and am at the present time corresponding with a young man. He has no bad habits and is a very hard worker, and I think earns a very good salary. Now, my father has known this young man as long as I have (that is seven years) and knows full well that he would make a very desirable husband for any young girl, but my father gets cross at me every time he comes out (for he is in a distant city and I only see him once in two or three months) and quarrels with me, which, of course, isn't very pleasant.

I gave a very nice young man up on his account once before, and it pains me most dreadfully to have to give this young man up when I see him so seldom. He and I grew up together, and as long as I have known him he has always acted as gentlemanly as the finest of young men. My parents cast up to me always what they have done for me, but they know that I am perfectly able and only too willing to go out and earn my own living, but they will not let me, as I am the only one at home that will work, and there is a family of ten to do for and an eight-room house to clean. So, Miss Fairfax, don't you think I am doing my part? Your valuable advice will certainly be a comfort to me, for I am almost heartbroken over this affair.

E. C. J.

PERHAPS your father is jealous, parents sometimes are when the time comes for their children to leave the home nest. I certainly think you are doing your share of work, and hope that your reward will come in winning the love of your friend. If there are others at home to take your place I see no reason why you should not marry your friend as soon as he is able to support you.

SHOPPING PHOTOS MAKE UNIQUE SOUVENIR CARDS

Original of One Receives Many Pictures on Post Cards Through the Mail.

"AFTER a vacation of two weeks," declared Miss Elizabeth Mara, of No. 182 Walnut street, Chelsea, "I returned to Boston to find myself more or less famous; and all because the camera man of the BOSTON AMERICAN snapped me.

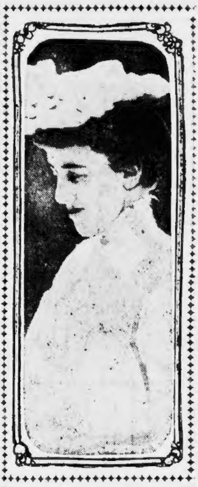
"While I was away several of my friends cut out the little 'shopping photograph' of myself, printed in the BOSTON AMERICAN, made souvenir postal cards with my own likeness on them, and mailed them to me."

The photo of Miss Mara was printed August 7, just two weeks ago. Immediately on her return to Boston she called and identified it. She received the daily award of $2.

The photo was taken August 6, in front of Houghton & Dutton's.

The photograph in last Friday's paper was an excellent likeness of Miss Katherine Q. St. Johns, of No. 151 Crescent avenue, Newton Centre, who called and identified the snapshot yesterday.

One of these photos is taken daily in the shopping district. When your picture appears the reward is yours for identifying it. Meanwhile keep an eye on the camera man when you go shopping.



The original of this snapshot will receive a reward of $2.

VALETS AT ROME VOTE TO RAISE BEARDS

ROME, Aug. 21.—There was an exciting discussion at a large meeting of valets here as to whether they should continue to obey the unwritten law barring mustaches. A resolution that hereafter all valets wear mustaches was carried, 2,000 votes being cast in its favor. The men have agreed to grow whiskers and beards in open defiance of what they term a "worn-out, tyrannous convention."

68 DAYS

have elapsed since the BOSTON AMERICAN filed with the Attorney-General a formal information and petition that he bring suit to force the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad and the Boston & Albany Railroad to obey the law and to abandon the competing trolley lines which they have illegally acquired.

The Attorney-General has delayed action until the New Haven road has disposed of its holdings secretly to a "voluntary association" organized by itself which is not subject to the control of the State Railroad Commissioners.

Why did the Attorney-General delay?

Do We Want to Stir up Dissatisfaction?

INDEED WE DO That Is What We Want More Than ANYTHING Else

The mild, milk-and-water, dog-like editors that write for corporation owners say that this newspaper "seeks to stir up dissatisfaction."

Of course it does. The newspaper or the man that doesn't seek to stir up dissatisfaction, SO LONG AS WRONGS EXIST, is a disgrace to himself and the community.

One of the best things that Ruskin ever said was that he hoped before he died to stir up dissatisfaction.

The work that all the patriots did in 1776, and before that time and after that time, WAS TO STIR UP DISSATISFACTION WITH EVIL CONDITIONS.

If you saw poor, wretched Hindoos struck in the face, kicked off the sidewalk, as Charles E. Russell saw them repeatedly in his recent travels, would you not seek to stir up dissatisfaction and protest in the breasts of those wretched men?

If you saw a Chinese coolie, half-starved, underpaid,, brutally tortured because he had even ventured to ask for better treatment, WOULD YOU NOT TRY TO STIR UP DISSATISFACTION IN THAT HALF-DEAD SOUL AND IN SOULS OF THE MILLIONS LIKE HIM, in the hope that he might set himself free?

And when you see in this country the abuses that exist in the packing houses, in the Gas Trust, in every line of widely organized swindling, IS IT NOT YOUR DUTY TO STIR UP DISSATISFACTION?

Is any man worthy of the name of man unless he IS dissatisfied when treated unjustly?

It is the BUSINESS of this newspaper to stir up dissatisfaction whenever dissatisfaction is justified.

It is one thing to stir up honest, intelligent dissatisfaction, AND QUITE ANOTHER THING TO PREACH STUPID REBELLION AGAINST AUTHORITY.

When the laws are enforced against the poor and ignored in the case of the rich, we try to stir up dissatisfaction. AND WE ASK YOU TO EXPRESS YOUR DISSATISFACTION AT THE BALLOT BOX WITH AN INDEPENDENT VOTE.

If a man "great in finance" is engaged in robbing all of the people, we speak to make you dissatisfied, AND WE URGE YOU TO CONTROL HIM THROUGH YOUR VOTE.

We detest TWO things:

First, the wretched sycophancy of the paid editor, or judge, or legislator, or clergyman who advises the people to be content under abuse.

And second, the stupid, rabid, foolish agitating of the fanatic who advises violent action, who counsels violation of law in return for violation of law, instead of counselling legal effective protest by the ballot.

We have GOT the vote in this country, fellow-citizens.

THAT VOTE INTELLIGENTLY AND INDEPENDENTLY USED WILL GIVE US JUST GOVERNMENT.

And we propose to try every day to make the people of this country dissatisfied, TO MAKE THEM EXPRESS DISSATISFACTION THROUGH THE BALLOT, until we shall have achieved the kind of a government, the general happiness, the widespread prosperity, to which we are entitled under a republic in a land so magnificently blessed as this.

Reverse This Little Picture

If the News Read the OTHER Way What a Howling You Would Hear

A certain newspaper which is most vociferous in denouncing labor unions—it hates bitterly to be compelled to pay union wages—prints with every evidence of satisfaction a dispatch that tells how a certain Mayor "had fun" with a number of workingmen.

The Mayor is called John Coucher, and he rules twelves miles out of Sandusky at Kelly's Island.

The Mayor, it seems, is a crack shot with the rifle.

It appears also that he disapproves of a certain strike among workingmen in his neighborhood. They refused to continue working unless they got more money.

This seemed to the Mayor—the crack shot—a criminal state of affairs. We quote the story:

> He decided to take matters in his own hands. With his rifle on his shoulder he marched to the quarters, where he ordered the strikers to disperse. They demurred and he opened fire upon them. One ball GRAZED A STRIKER'S EAR. Another was sent through the leg of another's trousers. And a third CLIPPED THE HEEL of a foreigner. By this time the strikers, dismayed and awed at the display of marksmanship, fled precipitately. The ringleaders left the island in haste and the others returned to work this afternoon.

Then follows a complimentary reference to this Mayor, who was such a good shot.

Just suppose that this news were written the other way.

Suppose that some LABOR LEADER had taken a rifle and gone among a crowd of employers or gone into that Mayor's office and used his rifle in the same way. Suppose that he had "grazed the ear" of one prosperous gentleman and "clipped the heel" of another with a rifle bullet.

What would have been said? Would not a tremendous demand have gone up for the immediate and permanent jailing of the workingman with the rifle? Wouldn't all the cheap, little, tame editors be howling about the criminality of union workingmen?

How does it happen that it is all right for a Mayor who doesn't like union labor to take his rifle and display his marksmanship on the ear or the heel of a worker, and what is the probable effect of such conduct on the foreigner alluded to, and on workingmen generally?

Little Editorials from the People

ISN'T IT ABOUT TIME THE LABOR VOTE "TOOK A TUMBLE?"

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

It is amusing, to say the least, to read in the subsidized papers of Boston and vicinity how "the Moran boom is on the wane," etc., and, judging by the tone of the respectable (?) press, it is surmised by not a few that the "barrel" has already been tapped, which accounts for the lusty shouting for the State Street financier for Governor.

The Gaston-Quincy-Sullivan-Whitney combination has also concluded to recognize the "labor vote" by graciously permitting the name of some so-called labor leaders to appear on the official ballot. Isn't it about time the labor vote, as it is termed, took a tumble to itself? How much longer are we going to submit to this sort of proceeding—the packing of conventions and the naming of candidates in advance by two or three so-called "recognized leaders?"

It may be well for the BOSTON AMERICAN to serve notice on the G.-Q.-S.-W. combination that it is going to be a pretty difficult matter to stampede the labor vote in this contest, and it can't be accomplished by a subsidized press crying out, with one accord, that "the Moran boom is on the wane."

HOW IS IT POSSIBLE TO PROVIDE FOR A RAINY DAY?

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

The recent Chicago and Chelsea bank failures and the many other similar failures are becoming so frequent that the people have almost become used to them. They continue to save their hard-earned money in the various banks without asking themselves a question. Is it safer to put the money in the bank, where it is apt to be spent by the officers of the bank, or to spend it ourselves and get something for it? I guess the safest way would be not to save any, for we come out just the same at the end.

Will you please write an editorial on this subject and suggest to the readers of the AMERICAN how our rainy day could be provided for without having the directors neglect to manage and the examiners fail to examine.

Divorce Is Preferable to Suicide and Often It Is the Only Moral and Decent Course to Pursue

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner

BACK in the olden days divorce was not known, or known only to kings who had absolute power to fashion laws to fit their moods and serve their purposes, and then to order them invalid before other common individuals took advantage of them.

To-day divorce is an every-day occurrence. Its prevalence is, indeed, something like an epidemic in the land.

Yet, in the days when no divorce was possible with the masses, murder by poisoning was almost as common as divorce is to-day.

Any one who doubts this statement needs only to read the histories of the old Italian cities; and not alone in Italy was the amiable art of poisoning pursued, but in France, Spain and England political diplomats and court intriguers thought little of ridding themselves of enemies and rivals by means of subtle poisons.

We can ask no greater proof of the growth of public sentiment toward higher ideals of morality than is shown by the widespread horror when a case of poisoning is discovered.

The highest circles of Europe did not feel this horror when such occurrences took place a few hundred years ago.

Horror of the Crime

THERE was no newspaper notoriety for the murderer to dread; no law which could not be made to serve his ends if he held a position of power, and chemical analysis of the digestive organs was not known. So the prisoner had things pretty much his own way.

The Borgia family was particularly addicted to poisoning people as a pastime. But they lived five hundred years ago, and the human race ought to make progress in half a millennium, surely.

There is no form of murder more deliberate and premeditated than poisoning. It suggests the cold-blooded plan, carefully conceived and unrelentingly executed.

It does not allow the excuse of hot-headed anger and momentary insanity, but bears witness to hours, and days, and nights of plotting a cruel and often torturing death of a fellow being.

It testifies to the existence of a personal devil, inhabiting the human form of the murderer, and watching with relentless eyes the slow and fatal effects of the awful crime perpetrated against another.

There is nothing which proves more conclusively to me that obsession is a fact and not a superstition than the recurrence of this crime in the present enlightened era. No man possessed of his reasoning faculties, cultured and educated, and with all his senses on the alert, could lend himself to such an abominable act as the destruction of another life by this monstrous method.

It surely must be, when the man allows his reason and his will to become the prey of some hypnotic influence from the border lands of earth, and is possessed by devils, like the two men from whom Christ drove the demons in the country of the Gergesenes, that such an evil deed can be carried into execution.

Love and Love Only

HOWEVER alarming seems the divorce epidemic in our land to-day it is certainly a better solution of marital misery than ground glass or arsenic.

When two people find life under one roof and one name obnoxious, separation is the only moral and decent course to pursue.

Perhaps there would have been less crime in the olden days, when human life was held at such small value, if divorce had been possible to the commoners as well as to the monarchs of that era.

Perhaps, despite our higher ideals and greater refinement, there would be more frequent crimes to-day were it not for divorce.

Surely, of the two evils, divorce is preferable to murder.

When the god of love goes out of a household there is always a chance for the devil to get in. He comes in various disguises. Sometimes as disgrace, sometimes as discord, sometimes as murder, sometimes as insanity.

Where reconciliation and a return of the blind god are impossible in a home, let its denizens make divorce welcome before the devil enters to take up his abode in any form.

Whether he comes as a great tragedian or a vulgar comedian, he is preferable to the devil.

Where love is not, hate too often is, and hate is the devil.

Love, and love only, renders marriage respectable, and only the children reared at homes where love exists are environed with respectability.

Children brought up in a home of discord are more than orphans.
